VOTE FOR DRAPER & WEEKS

GIVE A ROUSING MAJORITY TO BOTH MEN

BECAUSE

Governor Draper's good work in the past deserves the approval of all good citizens.

Governor Draper is a clean, able and intelligent executive.

Governor Draper is making unproductive state property produce a good income.

Governor Draper will not be subject to pernicious influences in making state appointments.

Newton business men ought to endorse Governor Draper's administration.

WHY CHANGE.

WHAT LITHIA IS.

Lithia is oxygen with lithium, which is one of the chemical elements and the lightest solid body known. In other words the oxide of lithium is the alkaline base which we call lithia and with which the acids unite to form lithia salts. The presence of this salt in Geneva (Lithia) Mineral Water, reinforced by a most harmonious combination of associate elements, renders the water almost a specific for rheumatism. Stress is not to be laid so much on the lithia alone, as upon the combination.

The name "WINCHESTER" in the heating business locates the article of highest merit. This heater stands at the head of hot water or steam heaters for dwelling houses. Write the makers for estimates. Smith & Thayer Co., 236 Congress St., Boston.

40 YEARS MARRIED.

Mr. and Mrs. John McGrath of 139 Cypress street quietly celebrated the 40th anniversary of their marriage last Saturday afternoon and evening in the company of their children and relatives from Somerville and Arlington.

Mr. and Mrs. McGrath were married Oct. 29, 1870, by Rev. Mannasses P. Doherty in St. Peter's Church, Old Cambridge, and for 35 years resided in Arlington, which at that time was a part of St. Peter's parish. They came to Newton Centre in 1905.

Owing to the death of Mr. McGrath's sister the past summer, only the family and relatives were present at the observance Sunday.

Eight children have been born to the remarkable couple. Six are living and were present. They were Mrs. James P. Powers of Newton Centre, Mrs. S. J. Nevins of Brookline and Mrs. Mary V. Robbins, Misses Elizabeth and Nellie and Mr. William F. McGrath, who reside with their parents.

NEWTON CLUB.

The second entertainment in the fall series was greatly enjoyed by a large gathering Thursday evening, Nov. 3, and Clara Sexton, soprano; Belle Temple Priest, reader; and Ernest W. Harrison gave an entertaining and pleasing program.

The entries for the bowling tournament which closed Wednesday night gave assurance of an unusually successful tournament.

Election Day will be open house and the returns will be received in the Assembly Hall by direct wire.

BECAUSE

Mr. Weeks has great influence in national affairs.

Mr. Weeks can thereby render Massachusetts greater service than his opponent.

Mr. Weeks has great ability and extraordinary good judgment.

Mr. Weeks is an important factor in the coming revision of the currency.

Mr. Weeks' neighbors and friends ought to let the country know how he is regarded at home.

SARAH HULL CHAPTER.

A meeting of the Sarah Hull Chapter, D. R., was held at the Hunnewell Club, Newton, on Tuesday, Oct. 27.

We were highly honored by having with us our president-general, Mrs. Adeline F. Fitz, who gave us an extremely interesting account of her visits to the state and local chapters of the Daughters of the Revolution of the West and South and spoke also of the beautiful receptions and entertainments given in her honor.

She was much gratified at the interest shown and the work being done by the chapters. It was a privilege to welcome with us also at this time the State D. R. officers.

Musical selections were rendered by Miss Beck, a bright young student from Boston.

The hostesses were Mrs. F. E. Stanley, Miss M. R. Wheeler, Mrs. E. T. Linchard, Mrs. Sam'l B. Whittemore, Mrs. Henry R. Viets, Mrs. Mitchell Wing.

MASS MEETING.

The success of the mass meeting and procession of Men's Bible Classes and Clubs of Greater Boston, on Sunday, Nov. 13, is already assured. Reports to date indicate that there will be over 5000 this year and that the four meeting places (Tremont Temple, Lorimer Hall, Park Street and Bromfield Street Churches) will be crowded. The procession will start from Copley square promptly at 3 o'clock, following the same route as last year.

The Newton district division will form on Huntington avenue, corner of Trinity Place-East. Programs and further particulars can be obtained from the district committee, Mr. D. P. Jewett, Newtonville, or Rev. C. E. Spaulding, Auburndale.

MR. WADE'S RECITAL.

Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 9, Elliot Church, 4:30 o'clock. Program: Prelude, E minor.....Dethier Nocturne.....Wheldon Meditation, "Thalia".....Massenet Arranged by Mr. Wade. Barcarolle.....Faulkes Spring Song.....Faulkes Overture, C minor.....Mendelssohn Symphony B flat, "Larghetto".....Schumann Abandoned.....Schumann Trauerlied.....Schumann In honor of the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Robert Schumann, 1810-1910.

The recitals are given every Wednesday afternoon, November to April, and are complimentary.

BURNED TO DEATH

Mrs. Mary J. Carroll, a widow boarding with Mrs. Catherine Benson at 172 Lexington street, Auburndale, was so seriously burned Tuesday morning that she died that night at the Newton Hospital.

While at work in the kitchen she dropped a towel that she was carrying to the kitchen stove. In reaching for it the sleeve of the light dress caught fire, and in an instant she was a living torch. The fact that she ran from the kitchen into the yard undoubtedly prevented the building from catching fire. A number of children who were at play nearby saw the awful sight and ran screaming to their homes. Neighbors rendered quick assistance and managed to beat out the flames.

Dr. Godfrey and Dr. Putnam were called and administered first aid, and the police ambulance rushed the unfortunate woman to the Newton Hospital. Although she did not inhale the flames, her entire body was burned.

Mrs. Carroll was a widow, 48 years old, and is survived by two sons, Thomas F. and John E. Carroll.

A BRILLIANT CONCERT.

The first concert of the Subscription Series inaugurated by Messrs. Burrage and Hatfield was probably the most brilliant from every point of view. Players' Hall was well filled and two young artists appeared there for their initial appearance. Francis Macmillen has been heralded as America's premier violinist. This heralding is a very true one. He is an unassuming young American who won all hearts by the beauty of his playing. It would not be right to endeavor to analyze it. Every number on his program was a gem and played with that fineness and nicety only performed by a master.

Mr. Gino Aubert is Mr. Macmillen's accompanist. He only graduated last year from the Geneva Conservatory, Switzerland, arriving in this country about a week ago. Mr. Aubert's success was an instantaneous one. He displayed a beauty of touch and exhibition of piano technique and form seldom seen. Musical students present marveled at his display of virtuosity. His reception in fact was such that an unusual thing for even a solo accompanist to do was insisted upon, an encore. The final number of the program was the "Andante" and "Finale" from the Mendelssohn Concerto. Mr. Macmillen's reading was a fascinating one and it is seldom that an audience is wrought to such a point of interest. Certainly it appreciated his efforts for an insistent applause brought forth another encore, "Souvenir," by Dvornik. This was given by the muted violin and so haunting was the melody that many ladies in the audience hummed it while putting on their wraps and when leaving the hall. In summing up the concert one can only say that if it is possible for two young master musicians (neither of them has reached his 25th birthday) to please an audience as they did on Wednesday evening, it is not at all wonderful that they should be in such constant demand all over the United States. The concert was under the direction of A. H. Handley and after it was over, both of the artists were tendered an impromptu reception by many of the audience.

Farmer's believe so thoroughly in the gospel of work that they even work their butter; and, like all else, it is the better for being worked.

THREE ALARM FIRE

The first three alarm fire in this city for a long time occurred Sunday evening when the unoccupied stable on Elm street, West Newton, took fire from some unknown cause and Box 31 was rung in. The stable is located in a closely built district and a second and third alarm were immediately rung in. A large crowd was attracted by the fire and car service to Washington street was interrupted. The building is owned by John Kenny of Winthrop. The loss is about $2000. With the high wind blowing at the time the fire department deserves commendation for confining the blaze to the stable. Mary Fitzgerald, living on Washington street, aged 12 years, was struck on the head with a falling ladder, after she had, in some unaccountable manner, run inside the fire lines. She was taken to police headquarters and examined by a physician before being sent home.

VETERAN DEAD.

Mr. George W. Cooke of Carleton street, Thompsonville, died suddenly Saturday evening in Braintree while visiting his daughter. The cause of death was hemorrhage of the lungs. Mr. Cooke was 65 years of age and for many years prior to the abolition of the grade crossings was a gate tender for the B. & A. R. R. He served in Company K, Fourth Massachusetts Cavalry, and was a member of Charles Ward Post, G. A. R. He is survived by a widow and several children. Funeral services were held from his late home on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 2, at 10 o'clock, at the First Baptist Church officiating. At the close of the regular service Chaplain Samuel P. Putnam and Commander Isaac F. Kingsbury of the post took charge of the Grand Army service. The burial was in the soldiers' lot at the Newton Cemetery and members of the post served as bearers.

MR. KIERNAN COMING.

A subscription affair of more than ordinary interest is being planned for the last of November in the Hunnewell Club house. George Kiernan of Philadelphia, the talented dramatic reader of the Joseph Jefferson plays, presents "Rip Van Winkle" Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 23, at 3 o'clock, and David Warfield's "The Music Master," Wednesday evening, Nov. 30, at 8:15 o'clock.

The presentation of these plays are the only accurate studies of great actors which have ever been brought to the public.

Large and cultured audiences repeatedly recall Mr. Kiernan to the platform after the plays are finished. A large number of Newton society people have already subscribed and it promises to be the best entertainment of its kind this season.

VOTE "NO" NEXT TUESDAY

ON CHARTER CHANGE TO REMOVE OFFICIALS

BECAUSE:—

It will force our city officials to active participation in municipal politics.

It will make our city officials take a political view of the effect of all their municipal acts.

It will deter the highest class of men from seeking city positions in the future.

It will inevitably lower the high standard of our city administration.

LASELL SEMINARY.

Mr. Ernest H. Baynes will give an illustrated lecture at Lasell Seminary on Thursday evening, Nov. 10, at 7:45 o'clock. Subject: Our Wild Neighbors. The public is cordially invited.

EDWARDS—KENT.

The marriage of Mr. Charles Lawrence Edwards of Waban and Miss Marjorie Kent, the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. George Kent of Providence, R. I., took place last evening at the Westminster Church of that city. The church was decorated with pink chrysanthemums and ferns and the ceremony took place at 7:30 under a large white bell which hung over the altar. Rev. George Kent, father of the bride, officiated. The bride wore white liberty satin with Dutch neck, the waist trimmed with Duchess lace and orange blossoms. Mrs. Harry Persall of Providence, the matron of honor, wore a white satin, low-necked dress, trimmed with Duchess lace, and the flower girl, Miss Eleanor Harding Robinson of Brookline, was in lace over pink. Mr. John McKee of Newton Centre was best man and the ushers were Messrs. Edwin Breed of Lynn, Allan Perkins of Wellesley Hills, Roger Hall of Newton and Ely Palmer of Providence. A reception followed in the chapel of the church. Mr. and Mrs. Edwards being assisted in receiving by Mrs. George Kent and the sisters of the groom, Mrs. G. H. Robinson and Mrs. J. Sears Millard.

After a wedding trip to the summer home of the bride at Chatham Mr. and Mrs. Edwards will reside at 775 Chestnut street, Waban, where they will be at home after Jan. 1.

BECAUSE:—

It will subject good city officials to the passing whims of a transient mayor.

27 years' experience has proved that the present method conduces to a higher standard of municipal work than has been reached by any other city.

There is no public demand for the change.

It is absolutely unnecessary

FINE RALLY.

The Republican party held a most successful rally on Tuesday evening in Players' Hall, West Newton. Red fire, fireworks and a brass band served to attract an audience which filled the building to overflowing and many were turned away. Representative George H. Ellis presided. Mayor Hatfield was a hearty reception. He urged the re-election of Governor Draper and advocated the adoption of pending charter amendments. He exhorted City Clerk Kingsbury from the charge made by a Newton paper to the effect that the city clerk had drafted the bill which was first passed by the Legislature and proved to be inadequate. Congressman John W. Weeks was received with three cheers. He spoke on the high cost of living and the tariff. The other speakers were Hon. John N. Cole, Senator Henry C. Mulligan, Mr. Thomas M. Spelman and Representatives Henry E. Bohnfeld and Thomas W. White.

CHANGE OF POLICY.

On Nov. 7, 1910, the depot service of the George W. Bush Company will be placed on a strictly cash basis. The service will also be increased and improved by two taxicabs in charge of competent chauffeurs, the fare being the same as for carriage service. Strip tickets for sale by chauffeurs, drivers and at office. George W. Bush Company.

A BANK OF REAL SERVICE

This institution on account of its convenient location and the special experience of its officers and staff in connection with the shoe and leather and textile trades is particularly well equipped to handle the banking business of firms and individuals in those lines.

We are large enough to warrant the utmost confidence in our strength and not too large to give each account and each customer the individual attention which is so much appreciated but not always secured at some banks.

This is an age of specialization, but while partly on account of our location and partly because of the experience of our directors and officers in those branches of trade we specialize in handling the business of wholesalers and jobbers in shoe, leather, wool and textile lines, we also do a general banking business suited to the needs of any business man.

This bank is looking for all the legitimate banking business it can get and it is exerting every effort of an experienced organization to handle the matters placed in its hands with satisfaction and profit to all concerned.

—Clarence Aldin, at Echo Bridge, gave a fine Halloween party at his home. The house was decorated very handsomely with Jack-o-lanterns, etc. It was a masquerade party, representing different characters and prizes were given for the best costumes. About 60 young ladies and gentlemen were present. Halloween games were carried out; bobbing for apples, doughnuts, hunting peanuts, etc. After refreshments were served they had dancing in the pavilion near by. Miss George Narchall (the witch) won the ladies' prize—a belt buckle, the gentleman's prize being a stick pin. At a late hour the party broke up and all went their way declaring they had had lots of fun and should all remember with pleasure the Halloween party of 1910.

—Halloween was pretty generally observed by the young people of this village Monday evening. Groups of boys and girls were parading the streets with Jack-o-lanterns, some dressed in disguise, others only enjoying a huge pumpkin with a candle inside, and still others less fortunate in getting a pumpkin followed on to see the fun. Several Halloween parties were held in various neighborhoods. The Baptist church entertained the young people in the church vestry, Mrs. Titus of Boylston street, gave a Halloween party. Miss Harriett Easterbrook, of Rockland Place, gave a very pleasant and interesting party. Mrs. Tuley of Rockland Place gave a party, the class of the 9th grade of the Ralph Waldo Emerson school, to the number of about 25 met at their library room to enjoy a Halloween party. All came disguised, wearing sheets and pillowcases for coats and hats. Several Halloween parties were held in various neighborhoods. Refreshments were served, then each and all started for their homes well pleased with the fun they had enjoyed during the evening. It was a good time long to be remembered by all who were present.

PRESTON NOT GUILTY.

In the United States District Court, before Judge Dodge, last Tuesday and Wednesday, the case of Mr. Francis W. Preston, an employee at the local branch of the postoffice, was tried. Preston was indicted on three charges, that of taking money from two decoy letters, mailed by two inspectors and of secreting another letter upon his person on the night of Aug. 13, 1910. In spite of the condemning evidence produced by the postal inspectors, Preston through his counsel, was able to produce evidence and witnesses, which proved to the entire satisfaction of the jury that he was innocent, and was not the type of a man to do such a thing, which he was charged with.

After the jury had deliberated for almost three hours, they returned to the courtroom and announced they could find nothing from the evidence produced to prove that Preston was guilty of the charges, and therefore returned the verdict of not guilty.

Among his host of friends, who had remained loyal to him during the weeks of suspense, there is great joy, and merely corroborated their feelings from the first, that he was completely innocent of the charges which the government had placed upon him.

HARVEST SUPPER.

The Newton Centre Squash Tennis Club held an enjoyable harvest supper and dance in Bray Hall, Newton Centre, on Wednesday evening. The tables were most attractive in their decorations of jack-o-lanterns, candles in carrots, cucumbers and pumpkins, while the dance hall was truly rural with corn stalks and autumn leaves. After the banquet dancing was enjoyed in one hall while whilst was played in the other. The affair was in charge of the house committee of the club, Messrs. F. N. Nathan, S. H. Mitchell and A. C. Rayner, assisted by Mrs. Nathan, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Rayner, Mrs. C. E. Kelcey, Mrs. E. B. Bowen, Mrs. E. A. Andrews, Mrs. G. W. Crampton, Mrs. Augustus Bealy, Mrs. W. D. Rising, Miss Louise Plimpton, Miss Elizabeth Armstrong, Mrs. Solomon Young and Mrs. F. H. Curtis. Prizes at whilst were awarded to Mrs. F. H. Hovey, Mrs. G. F. Wales, Mrs. Thomas Booth for the ladies, and to Mr. Allen Hubbard, Mr. W. D. Rising and Mr. Thomas Booth for the gentlemen.

THEATRES

Castle Square Theatre—Shakespeare has always succeeded at the Castle Square. Mr. Craig has now chosen "Richard III." as one of the most notable of the great dramas by the master dramatist and he is sure that the revival of so rarely produced a play will arouse more than ordinary attention. "Richard III." has for its leading character the great Duke of Gloster, who won the throne for himself after persistent efforts in which he stopped at nothing to reach the height of his ambition, and the play itself forms a vivid and picturesque narrative of the most interesting episodes of his career. The part of Richard will be played by Mr. Craig for the first time in a number of years. The other parts will be carefully assigned to Mr. Craig's associate players, and the scenic production will be elaborate and historically faithful. The run of "Richard III." will be limited to a single week. After "Richard III." Mr. Craig will present "Going Some" during the week of Nov. 14, "The Lion and the Mouse" for two weeks beginning Nov. 21, and "Twelfth Night" during the week of Dec. 5.

Hollis Street Theatre—Mr. William Gillette, under the direction of Mr. Charles Frohman, crowded the Hollis Street Theatre, Boston, all last week with a revival of "Sherlock Holmes." Beginning next Monday evening, the 7th instant, Mr. Gillette will play his stirring Civil War drama, "Secret Service," enacting his original role of the spy-lover, who, after penetrating the hostile country and proceeding to thwart the enemy's purpose against his own country, falls under the sway of the daughter of the commanding general he was planning to destroy. After the week of "Secret Service" Mr. Gillette is promised for the week beginning 14th instant in his world-famous farcical comedy, "The Private Secretary." The engagement of this distinguished star terminates at the Hollis with the week ending 26th instant, during which he will appear in a round of the remaining plays of the repertoire selected for his present tour.

With the near approach of the long winter evenings comes naturally the thought of building up or replenishing the home library. When in such a train of thought, it is both an inspiration and a help to spend an odd half hour in such a fascinating store as Lauriat's. Boston has at least one book store of which she may well be proud and which will rank with the best in the country. It is never a more attractive spot than at just this season of the year when the stock has been enriched with the summer's purchases here and abroad in anticipation of the wants of the coming holiday season.

The second lecture of the electrical class will be held Monday evening, Nov. 7, at the association rooms. It is not too late for any to enroll in this class.

An interesting meeting of the ministers of Newton was held Thursday evening at which Mr. R. W. Gibson, state boys' secretary, spoke upon the Boy Scouts of America.

The employed boys' class which was started a week ago is proving very popular. This class is open to boys who are employed during the day and who are under 18 years of age. The class meets Tuesday evenings from 7 to 8 o'clock Friday evening from 7:30 to 9 o'clock. Every employer should take an interest in the spare time of his youthful help, and there is no better way to develop character and build strong useful bodies than by taking systematic physical training and learning to play fair.

Mr. Richard Wheeler has been secured as piano player for the senior gymnastics.

A triangular athletic meet will be arranged between Newton, Somerville and Brockton Y. M. C. A.'s to be held in the local gymnasium some time during December.

The basketball season will open Nov. 16 with Somerville Y. M. C. A.'s first and second teams.

On Thursday, Nov. 10, a meeting will be held in the association rooms to discuss the advisability of organizing a Sunday school athletic league.

HALLOWEEN PARTY.

One of the pleasantest parties ever given in the Hunnewell Club was that on Monday evening. The decorations were both unique and beautiful. Stacks of corn were the chief decorations of the assembly hall, and the hall was darkened as the 200 guests entered, the only light coming from electric fruit decorations among the corn. The dining room was gay with witches, candles burning in hollowed cucumbers and pumpkins, and the good things to eat were typical of the day. The affair was in charge of Mrs. E. T. Ryder and Mr. L. D. Gibbs, assisted by Mrs. E. R. Utley, Mrs. George Owen, Mrs. F. E. Stanley and Mrs. F. H. Loveland.

The Abbott Academy Club of Boston will meet at Hotel Vendome on Saturday, Nov. 5, at 2:30 p. m. Mr. Burton F. Flagg, treasurer and trustee of the academy, will speak. Miss Rosalind Kempton of Newtonville will give selections on the violin. A social hour will follow.

CONCERT AND BALL.

Clan MacGillivray gives its first concert and ball at Temple Hall, Newtonville, on Thursday evening, Nov. 10. Mayor Hatfield will make the opening address and the entertainment will be given by the Cantonian Concert Company, with Master Wallace MacLaron, dancer, and Mr. Malcolm MacPherson, piper.

POLICE NOTES.

Joseph Lombardi of West street, Nonantum, was fined $30 by Judge Kennedy Monday morning for carrying concealed weapons. Lombardi was arrested Sunday for drunkenness by Patrolmen Cronin and Hannon. When searched an immense knife was found concealed in his clothing. Lombardi told the judge that the officers must have placed the knife there, as he knew nothing about it.

TEACHERS' MEETING.

The Newton Teachers' Association will hold its next meeting in the lecture hall of the Technical High School on Thursday, Nov. 17. A reception will be given the new teachers and a concert will be given by the Eastern Concert Company.

What the Boston Elevated Has Done for Rapid Transit.

Extensions and Additions, Subway, Elevated and Surface, Which It Has Provided

No. 6.

The Boston Elevated Railway Company is showing by a series of maps published in the Boston daily papers the additions and extensions which it has made to its system. On Sept. 23 was shown the surface lines and the Tremont Street Subway as in Jan. 1898. This was when the Boston Elevated took charge—on Oct. 3, the original elevated system; on Oct. 5th, the East Boston Tunnel; on Oct. 10, the Washington St. Tunnel; on Oct. 15, the Forest Hills Elevated Extension; on Oct. 17, the East Cambridge Elevated Extension; on Oct. 19, the East Cambridge Subway and Beacon Hill Tunnel; on Oct. 24, the Riverbank Subway; on Oct. 26, the Malden Elevated Extension; on October 31, the Addition to Surface Lines; on November 2, all Surface and Rapid Transit Lines.

Additions to Surface Lines.

Sixteen States in the Union and numerous important cities, such as Louisville, Indianapolis, Omaha, Rochester, Columbus, etc., have each LESS MILES OF STREET RAILWAY than the Boston Elevated has ADDED TO THE SURFACE LINES in the last twelve years.

When the West End Street Railway Company was leased in 1897, there were three hundred and four and a half miles of surface track—all that had been built in 41 years.

One hundred and fifty-six miles, or an INCREASE OF FIFTY PER CENT., have been added in 13 years.

These additions cost about TWELVE MILLIONS OF DOLLARS.

Substantially all of these additions have been built in the outer suburbs.

This means that the distance which a passenger may be carried for five cents has greatly increased.

Five cents today buys LESS than it formerly did of almost any commodity, but MUCH MORE of transportation on the Elevated system.

There were at the time of the lease TWENTY free transfer points. Now there are SEVENTY-NINE.

There WERE then 23,775,726 free transfer passengers. Now there ARE ABOUT 185,000,000.

The one hundred fifty-six miles increase is distributed as follows: Boston, Roxbury, 15.8; West Roxbury, 23.0; Brighton, 8.0; Charlestown, 5.2; Dorchester, 25.3; East Boston 2.6; South Boston, 2.0; Arlington, 3.0; Belmont, 8.5; Brookline, 8.0; Cambridge, 5.0; Chelsea, 2.0; Everett, 1.0; Malden, 12.5; Medford, 15.5; Newton, 2; Somerville, 11.4; Watertown, 6.8.

To these extensions in large measure are due the health, comfort and beauty to be found in the suburbs for which Boston is justly celebrated.

All Surface and Rapid Transit Lines

This Company is the only one operating surface, subway and Elevated lines WITH FREE TRANSFERS BETWEEN ALL.

It serves twelve cities and towns and an area of about 125 square miles.

IN 1914 FOR EVERY $20.00 OF TAXED WEALTH IN THIS ENTIRE DISTRICT THE STREET RAILWAY PROPERTY WILL SHOW AN INVESTMENT OF ONE DOLLAR.

The transportation facilities are progressing EIGHT TIMES AS FAST as the population and five times as fast as the wealth.

More than ever optimism must be accompanied with EXTREME CAUTION in weighing each and every future extension.

We ask your consideration of the comparisons shown below.

Notwithstanding the argument of ex-Mayor Weed to which I give space
this week relative to the pending amendment to the city charter, to be decided at the coming election, I believe that the experience of the city for the past 27 years is a safer guide than the theories of charter reformers. Mayor Weed's contention that the present charter requires the Mayor to appear as a public prosecutor of his own subordinate, is not strictly according to the facts. It is true that the aldermen are obliged to give a hearing to a suspended official, but it is not obligatory for the Mayor to appear against the official at such hearing. Mr. Weed, as Mayor, had to solve one of the hardest cases of the kind during the existence of the city, and it is highly creditable to him that he won out in the controver. But it should be noted that Mr. Weed solved his problem under the present city charter. It will be noted that he does not mention what is undoubtedly the worst feature of the new plan—the entry of city officials and their friends into active municipal politics. The nomination of a mayoralty candidate, known to be antagonistic to any city official, would inevitably lead to active political work by his friends. One reason why the city of Newton has been able to attract the best men of their profession to its service has been the fact the office is not dependent on politics.

While the editor of the Graphic has been employed at City Hall for the past 26 years, he does not hold,
and never has held a position affected by the proposed change, and during the present campaign he has not been asked by any interested city official to oppose the adoption of the amendment. He, therefore, has no personal interest to be served by its adoption or rejection. The editor is against the amendment for the sole reason that it is not for the best interests of the city and for the several reasons
set forth in this issue of the Graphic.

Another point which has not been sufficiently urged is the pernicious effect this tremendous power will have on the official acts of a department head. He will naturally consider the political effect of his actions and in dealing with men who would either become Mayors themselves or have considerable influence with persons who might hold that office, it is reasonable to suppose that the city's interests would not have that whole-souled devotion which now exists.

The "Why Change" editorials which have been printed in this paper the past few weeks have missed the intended mark if they have not concentrated the attention of Newton voters on the fact that a vote for or against the re-election of Governor Draper will have absolutely no effect on the re-election of Senator Lodge, the high cost of living or revision of the tariff. The intelligent voters of this city ought to rise above the speciousness of the prevalent demagogues, and realize that the only real issue between the rival candidates for Governor, is approval, or disapproval of Governor Draper's excellent administration of state affairs.

The election of Mr. Foss would have as much effect on tariff revision or the high cost of living as the splash of a pebble in the ocean.

To reiterate what has been said
so many times before, does Mr. Draper's course as Governor merit the approval of the business men of this Commonwealth. If so, WHY CHANGE?

Voters of this city will have an opportunity next Tuesday to decide whether or not they prefer a smaller school committee than at present.

The question is not one of principle like that of the removal of city offi-

Expressmen on Strike.

cers, but is merely one of expediency.
As a working body, the present school board is cumbersome. Practically the real work of the board is done by a sub-committee of seven, and in the last analysis, the real power emanates from the superintendent. The smaller body is favored by a very large majority of the school committee itself, and the average voter will do well to follow their lead. Vote YES on this referendum next Tuesday.

It seems entirely needless for me to urge the voters of Newton to give our own Congressman, John W.
Weeks, their hearty support at the polls next Tuesday. Congressman Weeks' record at Washington has put the 12th Massachusetts Congressional district, as well as the city of Newton, on the political map, and his great influence on important legislation is the pride of his friends and neighbors. Everyone vote for Captain Weeks.

WOMEN'S CLUBS NEWS

Miss Grace M. Burt, Editor.

In the death of Mrs. Julia Ward
Howe the club movement of Massachusetts has suffered a great loss as have so many other reform movements of the day. To most of the younger club women acquaintance with her has been limited to an occasional formal presentation or the few words of greeting upon some platform, but even such remembrance will be counted a privilege. Her gracious presence, her keen insight, her ready wit and direct speech, all were a benediction upon any audience that she addressed. Her motto, "To learn, to teach, to serve and to enjoy," may well be taken to heart by all well-poised women. Those who were so fortunate as to see her take her degree at Smith College on her recent visit there will cherish that memory as a precious memory. It has been told of her visit there that instructions had been sent in regard to her diet, that she was upon no account to take coffee or bacon for her breakfast. So according to directions she was served with tea and toast. Miss Howe looked at it a little disappointedly and after a moment asked, "Do I not smell coffee?"
and a little later, "Have I not smelt bacon?" Upon being told in the affirmative, she replied, "I will have some of both." And she had them and ate them with great relish.

The Pierian Club held its regular meeting with Mrs. Charles Mills on Wednesday. Mrs. W. B. Halliday had charge of the afternoon and gave a most instructive talk on "Savonarola." Mrs. Thompson read a sketch of the life of Florence Nightingale.
The next meeting will be "guest day," to be held with Mrs. Locke.

The event in the club world for next week is the autumn meeting of the Massachusetts State Federation to be held at Cambridgeport on Tuesday, Nov. 8, in the First Baptist Church, Central square. The program promises to be full of interest and a large attendance is assured.
Mrs. May Alden Ward will give a tribute to the memory of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe during the latter part of the morning session and the meeting will be closed by the singing of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," led by the chorus of the Cantabrigia Club with Mrs. Florence Lee Whitman as conductor. There will be a box luncheon with tea and coffee at a nominal price.

On Monday, Nov. 7, the Waban
Woman's Club will open its season with a reception at the home of Mrs.
George M. Angier of Pine Ridge road.
There will be music and readings.
The Auburndale Review Club will visit the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston on Tuesday morning, Nov. 8.

"The Commonwealth of Massachusetts" is the subject which the Social Science Club will consider during a portion of the year. The first paper entitled "The Old Bay State," will be given next Wednesday morning.

A lecture recital on "Russian Music" will be given by Mr. Alvah
Glover Salmon before the Newton Centre Woman's Club on Thursday,
Nov. 10, at 10 a. m.

A course of lectures on Current Events by Mrs. May Alden Ward has been arranged for the second and fourth Thursday mornings at 9:45 beginning Nov. 10. The proceeds will be used for the Nonantum Day Nursery.

The Monday Club of Newton Highlands has been having a treat in a course of four lectures on Browning
by the Rev. Robert Van Kirk. On Monday of this week the closing lecture was on "A Blot on the 'Scuthe-don' and was listened to with great interest. Next week Rev. Milan C.
Ayres will address the club on "The Influence of America in Shakespeare's Writings." The meeting will be held with Mrs. E. P. Bosson of Hillelde road.

On Tuesday morning the Auburndale Review Club in its course on Modern Drama considered Robert Browning's "Luria." Miss Ellen C.
Williams read an account of the life of the poet as a man. Mrs. Amos R. Wells gave an outline of the play with some explanations and Mrs. T.
W. Gore and Mrs. William Fuller read selections from it. Mrs. Spaulding sang two of Browning's songs accompanied by Mrs. Nelson Freeman.

Dr. Leon Vincent spoke before the Newtonville Woman's Guild on Tuesday, Nov. 1, upon James Russell Lowell. The lecturer considered him upon his human side, as the professor at Harvard, and as a critic and letter writer. Vocal solos were rendered by Mr. Charles Hill accompanied by Mrs. D. E. Baker.

The first meeting of the Social Science Club was held at the Hunnewell Club on Wednesday morning with Mrs. Walcott in the chair. A report of the Biennial Convention of the General Federation was given by Mrs. F. E. Stanley. The work of the School Gardens as carried on by the committee of the club was presented by its chairman, Mrs. L. S. Drake.
The gardens were a decided success,
although there were many attending difficulties to be overcome. However, another year the committees see ways in which they may profit by the experience of this and hope that the experiment may be tried again.

The reports of other committees show that work is already well under way and there is promise of a successful winter. At the close of the regular routine of business Mrs. H. H.
Powers, whom the club members were delighted to welcome once more among them, told most entertainingly of some of her travels during the past winter, dwelling particularly upon her experiences in Egypt and on the Nile, the life-giving river, as she called it, the river that has made the country. English power, she said, has made of Egypt a place worth living in.

An attractive reception was held by the West Newton Women's Educational Club at the home of Mrs.
Robert Gorton of Berkeley street and proved a delightful affair. The house was profusely decorated with pink chrysanthemums. Mrs. Thomas M.
Elwell, the president, together with the vice-presidents, received with Mrs.
Gorton. Mrs. Harry Wells was in charge of the ushers, Mrs. Fred Young of the tea room, while Mrs.
M. E. Beardsley served frappe. Fine music added much to the pleasure of the afternoon.

Owing to difficulty in securing a place in which to hold the meeting of the Newton Federation it has been necessary to postpone it from the middle of November to Dec. 1.

On Monday afternoon, Oct. 31, the Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. celebrated its thirtieth anniversary, being the first of the larger clubs in Newton to attain this dignity. It was marked by a gala occasion with guests from many neighboring clubs and many individual guests of members. The program included orchestral numbers and a reading of Josephine Preston Peabody's play, "The Piper," by Prof.
Thomas Whittemore of Tufts College.
The Congregational Church parlors
where the meeting was held, were tastefully decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums, the club colors, and palms. After the reading
Mrs. Warren White, the president, Prof. Whittemore, and the four charter members, Mrs. J. F. C. Hyde, Mrs.
Darius Cobb, Mrs. W. S. Richards
and Mrs. Elliott Hyde of New York, received members and guests to the number of about two hundred.

A report of the Food Sanitation Conference held at Jamaica Plain on Wednesday will be given next week.

Boston Theatre—The great dramatic success, "The Speckled Band," an adventure of Sherlock Holmes, by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, begins its third week at the Boston Theatre next Monday. There has been a continuous line at the box office ever since it opened and there is no doubt that "The Speckled Band" has settled down for a run. Never has a play which has been produced at the Boston Theatre in years received such unanimous praise from the press. As to the production itself, Mr. Frohman has spared neither pains nor expense to bring out this play in a carefully, elaborate, artistically true manner, characteristic of all his productions. Likewise his selection of the cast. Among them are Edwin Stevens, Charles Millward, Ivo Dawson, John Findley, Ivan F. Sampson, Ben Field, Frank Shannon, Kenneth Meinken, H. H. McCollum, Cyril Chadwick, Alexander Frank, John M. Troughton, Irene Fenwick, Katherine Brook and Etta Morris. Matinees during the engagement will be given on Wednesdays and Saturdays and special attention is given to mail orders from out-of-town patrons.

Mr. Goldstocks—So you want my daughter, eh? Do you drink?
Bob Bluffer—Not while I am doing business. Let that go till later.

WHY CHANGE?
To the Editor of the Newton Graphic: In your editorial comment on the proposed change in the city charter relative to the removal of heads of departments to be submitted to the voters at the state election, there has frequently occurred the query, "Why change?" But so far I have not happened to notice any answer to your question. It is in my opinion a sufficient answer, because under the present charter such an official can in fact be removed only for a known and easily proved act of flagrant misconduct. Relatively few voters have a working knowledge of the provisions of the present charter with respect to this matter and it is for this reason that I am taking the liberty of asking you to print this communication.

Section 15 of the present charter provides: "The executive powers of the city shall be vested solely in the mayor, and may be exercised by him either personally or through the several officers or boards of the city in their departments, under his general supervision and control." It then proceeds to state the method of appointment of these officers and boards and their terms of office, which are until they resign or are removed, save only in the cases of the assessors, assistant assessors and overseer of the poor. In Section 16 it says: "The mayor may, by writing, suspend any executive officer, and he shall at once report his action and his reasons therefor to the Board of Aldermen. The suspension of any such officer shall, in fifteen days after said report is made, be a removal, unless within that time he asks for a hearing before the board, which shall forthwith be granted, and upon conclusion of such hearing the board vote that the mayor's suspension be not sustained, in which case the officer shall at once be reinstated." It is perhaps obvious that in the application of these provisions to a concrete case, if a mayor undertakes to suspend such an officer and the latter demands a hearing, the hearing must proceed and be decided by the mayor on the reasons assigned by the mayor for suspending such officer, and these reasons must be established not by hearsay, opinion or conjecture, but by such evidence as is necessary to establish facts in courts of justice. It follows that, however well grounded his judgment of the officer's unfitness to continue longer in office may be and however necessary action may be for the good of the public service, he cannot safely act unless he has first found reliable legal evidence to establish his contention. The difficulties in the way of procuring such evidence, especially where the charge is of incompetence alone, are so great that rather than run the risk of a public humiliation, a mayor may well prefer the embarrassing alternative of continuing in office an incompetent and unfit official. In any event the forcing of a mayor to assume the role of a public prosecutor of an official who under the charter is directly responsible to him and for whose conduct he himself is made responsible is neither dignified nor appropriate.

You yourself have made it quite clear in your editorials that the present provisions of the charter offer a difficult and perhaps an insurmountable barrier to the removal of executive officers and you have also made it clear that in your opinion such provisions are necessary for the purpose of protecting worthy officials from irresponsible mayors. It is quite evident, however, that provisions which effectually prevent an irresponsible mayor from removing an are equally effectual in preventing a responsible mayor from removing an unworthy official. It is ordinarily assumed that a city charter is framed to give the community the best government possible, and that the public welfare may be superior to the interests of any one individual, whether official or citizen. The issue is squarely raised by the proposed change whether this end is to be the more certainly attained by giving the executive officers, worthy or unworthy, more protection than their own subordinate appointed under civil service rules, or not. For that is the case now.

It should be of some value to the discussion that at least three mayors serving under the present charter and two boards of aldermen, the only ones before whom the question has been raised, have declared themselves unequivocally in favor of a change. It is safe to say that every one of these men believes earnestly in protecting our city officials from political reprisals and in continuing them in office indefinitely so long as they are honest and efficient. There is nothing in the past to indicate that a worthy official need have the slightest fear for his personal fortune if this change is made. There is no occasion to worry about the unworthy official but only because of him. There seems no sound reason for seriously fearing what might or could have but never has been. There is on the other hand every reason to make the mayor the responsible head of the executive departments of the city government, to give him the effective means of exercising the full measure of his responsibility and to hold him strictly accountable for its exercise. When we permit ourselves the questionable luxury of any mayor other than one worthy of such a trust, no charter provisions will protect either worthy officials or (what is more important) the community itself from the consequences.

For one I say change the charter by all means.

Will You Trust the Government of Massachusetts to the Boston Bosses of the Faneuil Hall Convention?

Foss Owes His Nomination For Governor To Fitzgerald and Lomasney

Are you willing to have the appointment of your public officials dictated by the Boston Democratic Machine?

Are you willing to see the Boston Police Force, the Boston License Commission and the Civil Service Commission dominated by the same sinister influence?

Governor Draper has given a business administration. He has been fair to organized labor, to organized capital and the whole people.

Under a Republican administration the people of Massachusetts are today employed, new mills are in process of construction, and the savings banks deposits indicate a prosperous and thrifty people.

As YOU Are Proud of Massachusetts, Vote For A Clean and Untainted Administration of State Affairs

Lieut.- Governor

GOVERNOR DRAPER SAYS: "Of the Democratic candidate for Governor, Mr. Foss, I will say that his record of performance in public office is a blank. His public record as a candidate for public office in both parties is well known. When a Republican he tried to rule or ruin, and failed in both. As a Democrat he has tried to rule or ruin, and succeeded in both."
Republican State Committee—Charles E. Hatfield, Chairman; John H. Curtin, Secretary.

HOW DO YOU FEEL?

A few mornings ago, six business men chanced to meet on a street corner to wait for a car, and on the announcement that they were several minutes early, one of the number suggested that they all adjourn to a voting list near by and see if their names were on. One remarked that he would not cross the street to see, as he did not intend to vote, did not care enough about it. Another could not vote for Foss and would not vote for Draper. A third one had intended to vote for Draper until he heard Roosevelt pitch into Foss at the Arena in a way that disgusted him and decided him to vote for Foss.

The fourth one had no fault to find with Draper except that he was friendly with Senator Lodge and as he could have no opportunity to vote against Lodge he was going to do the next best thing and vote for Foss to help defeat Draper. The fifth one said, "me, too." The remaining one, being my informant, did not enlighten me as to his remarks, but did give me an opportunity to express my opinion about the others.

Some of the reasons given by these men for voting for Mr. Foss are the best I have ever heard given. I can hardly conceive of a better reason than just plain spite against someone else, but does it not, like the "two-edged sword," cut both ways?

Does the election of Mr. Foss promise to add to the prestige of the state or to the prosperity of its people? I know he is harping about Canadian Reciprocity, the Tariff and the high cost of living, but what would he have to do with those subjects even if he were elected Governor? He is simply obliged to talk on national issues because there is nothing to criticize in the management of the affairs of the state under Governor Draper. When Mr. Draper was elected he voluntarily cut out his salary with the Draper Company, which was many times the salary of the Governor, with the excuse that it was a full-grown man's job to be Governor of the state, and that no man could faithfully serve two masters, so those who aid in securing his defeat are unwittingly voting him a very generous raise of pay.

Now, about Roosevelt's remarks at the Arena. He had not been here very long, but he seemed to have heard very little that was good about Mr. Foss. I have known him and hundreds of those who do know him for about nine years, and I have yet to meet the man who has a word to say in his favor. He can be as nice as need be when he feels disposed, and assume a smile that would fool anyone but an expert, but it is not the "kind that won't come off," and when it is off it leaves a frozen face that would send a chill up the spine of a corpse.

I do not know that he is to blame for this, and I do know that I am not the man to judge him without prejudice, for I don't like him, nor do I know a man who does. I can have a little sympathy for the man who will not vote because of his indifference, for I have been guilty of the same fault, and know it is the result of ignorance, but for the man who throws down Draper because he hates Lodge I have the same feeling that I would have for the miscreant who slashes a valuable horse because of a grudge against his owner.

For fear that I may be taken for a Democrat I will quit abusing people. Patriotism, like charity, should begin at home and every man should take interest in city and state affairs just as much, or a little more, than in those of the nation. Every intelligent man in the state knows that Mr. Draper has made us a good Governor, one of the best we have ever had, so why take chances of a change for the worse by turning the state over to the ones instrumental in holding a state convention and turning it into something more disgraceful than a dog fight. What a spectacle it would be if they could not manage the affairs of state better and how proud we should be and how glad we had made a change.

Who supposes that the men to blame for that disgraceful affair are to get only the cold shoulder and no plums if Mr. Foss is elected? Draper has made so good a Governor that the yellow journals which used to abuse him have been shamed into silence.

B. F. Keith's Theatre—Charlotte Hunt the Boston stock actress who has been making such a hit at B. F. Keith's Theatre during the week, will appear Monday in something that will prove a decided novelty in vaudeville. It is a one-act comedy drama written by Altes Hunt, and in which she is the only person appearing. The action takes place in a ladies' boudoir, beautifully furnished, and during the piece a delightful little love story with a jealous woman as the principal figure, is unfolded, and at the same time Miss Hunt does a charming little bit of comedy in showing Missy dressing for the street. On this bill will be one of the greatest European novelties ever imported to this country.

Howard and North, those perennial favorites, are also on the bill and will present the greatest of all their comedies, "Those Were the Happy Days." Another extraordinary feature from abroad will be Vilmos Westony, the pianist of international reputation, a protégé of the late Richard Wagner, who besides being a great artist has caught the vaudeville idea and has a program that has been making a tremendous hit ever since he arrived in this country. Still another foreign company is that of Percy Warm, who will appear in a dramatic sketch based on one of W. W. Jacobs' famous sea stories, called "The Boatwain's Mate." Other features will be Gordon and Marx, German comedians, and the Royal Colibri, a troupe of midgets.

CITY HALL NOTES.

PRAISED BY BOSTON GLOBE.

"For 10 months Chairman Hatfield of the state committee has been smoothing out the rough places in the party organization with apparent success. Every Republican with a grudge who could be coaxed back into the fold has had the personal attention of either the state chairman or his representative.

"If personal appeal and attention to every little detail of the campaign counts, then the Republican organization is in better shape for getting out the vote this year than it has been in the past 20 years.

"Chairman Hatfield is a willing worker, patient and painstaking in all his party efforts, and if he doesn't succeed in re-electing Governor Draper it will not be his fault. No man since Senator Lodge was at the head of the party organization, 27 years ago, and directed the Republican fight against the re-election of Governor Butler has given so much of his time or shown more political acumen than the present head of the Republican state organization."

In the saving of time, trouble and labor and in superior cooking ability, no other range can compare with them.

The Single Damper (patented) is the only perfect fire and oven control; one motion—slide the knob to "kindle," "bake" or "check," and the range does the rest.

The Two Hods in the base (patented) is a wonderful trouble-saving feature. One Hod for ashes, instead of the old, clumsy ash pan; the other Hod for coal.

The Oven with its cup-joint flues is heated all over alike; no "cold corners," no "scorching spots."

The Patented Grates save trouble and money.

REDUCED MAJORITIES

FOR GOVERNOR DRAPER AND CAPTAIN WEEKS

With a total vote 531 larger than that cast last year, Governor Draper received 3387 or 232 more than last year, and Mr. Foss had 2073 or 335 larger than the vote of Mr. Vahcy in 1909, making Governor Draper's plurality 1314, or 103 less than 1909. Lieutenant-Governor Frothingham, on the contrary, increased his plurality of last year by 506 votes, receiving 3440 to 1770 given Mr. Cassidy, while Mr. Frothingham had but 1164 over Mr. Foss in 1909. Congressman Weeks' plurality of two years ago was badly cut. While he received 3570 votes on Tuesday as compared with 3892 in 1908, when the vote was 300 larger than this year, his Democratic opponent greatly increased the vote of 1908, receiving 1887 this year as compared with 1326 in 1908. The Congressman has a plurality of but 1670 as compared with 2566 when he ran before. But the greatest gain by any candidate on the Democratic ticket was that made by Mr. Cannon, who ran for the state Senate against Senator Mulligan. Mr. Cannon received the flattering vote of 2343 and Senator Mulligan with 2915 has a plurality of but 572 compared with 1377 last year. Mr. Cannon's vote is the largest ever given a Democratic candidate for Senator and is a decided compliment to him.

Representatives Bothfeld, Ellis and White are easily re-elected. Mr. Bothfeld and Mr. Ellis with increased votes over last year. Mr. White with a slight reduction. The three Democratic candidates had a trifle larger vote than was given their one candidate last year. The amendments to the city charter were adopted with overwhelming majorities. The school committee being reduced to seven members by a vote of 3194 to 892, while the voters favored increasing the powers of the Mayor to remove city officers by a vote of 3203 to 1389, only one precinct in the city casting a NO majority on this question.

The election passed off in a most orderly fashion, with nothing of incident to record. Postmaster General Hitchcock came on from Washington to vote and cast his ballot in West Newton about noon. Mr. John Southern, who is 96 years of age, cast his ballot in Ward One as usual. The returns were slow in reaching City Hall, the first email precinct, Chestnut Hill, arriving at 6:40, and the Newton Highlands precinct being the last at 10:50.

Election returns were received at the Newton and Hunnewell Clubs and interested groups of men staid until a late hour to hear the news from the state and country.

The detailed vote for the more important officers will be found in another column. The vote for minor positions and candidates was as follows:

HOLLINGS-BUSWELL.
Miss Caroline Mead Buswell, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Buswell of Newton, was married last Saturday afternoon to Mr. William French Hollings, Harvard '99, of Denver, Col., a former resident of Newtonville. The ceremony took place at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at the home of the bride, 292 Franklin street, Rev. H. Grant Person, pastor of the Eliot Church, officiating. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was preceded by her two little nieces, the Misses Elizabeth and Caroline Towle of Boston, as flower girls, and the best man was Dr. Henry Parker Towle of Boston, brother-in-law of the bride. A reception followed the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Hollings being assisted in receiving their friends by Mr. and Mrs. Buswell and Mrs. William Hollings and Miss Hollings of Chicago, mother and sister of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Hollings will reside at Brownleigh court, Grant street, Denver, Col., where they will be at home after Jan. 2.

BOWERS-KING.
Miss Ethel King, a Wellesley graduate, and the daughter of the late Moses King, a well known publisher and former resident of Newton, was married Monday evening in Christ Church, Cambridge, to Melville Myers Bowers of Oklahoma City. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Prescott Everts, rector of the church and a classmate of the bride's father in the 1881 class of Harvard. After a reception at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. L. J. Cloyes, Mr. and Mrs. Bowers left for their new home in Oklahoma City.

MR. BATES DEAD

Mr. William Carver Bates, author, editor and during his active business life prominent in insurance circles, died Sunday at his home, 15 Belmont street, Newton, aged 72 years. Mr. Bates was one of the oldest members of Grace Episcopal Church, Newton. From 1887 up to a short time ago he was engaged in insurance business in Boston, and was considered an authority on insurance matters. He was born in Hanover, May 25, 1838, son of Rufus and Hulda Bates. He was graduated from the Hanover Academy. At Hanover, April 14, 1867, he married Emma Barstow. He was a member of the New England Historical-Genealogical Society, Boston Mycological Club and other scientific organizations. He was a member of the Common Council of Newton in 1889 and 1890.

Mr. Bates' death was caused by paralysis. He was sick but two days. A widow and three daughters survive him. The daughters are all school teachers. Sarah L. is teaching in Spokane, Washington, and Elizabeth C. and Abby B. in New York city. Funeral services were held from Grace Church, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and were conducted by the rector, Rev. Dr. Laurens MacLure, assisted by the vested choir. There were many relatives, friends and business associates present and numerous floral tributes. The bearers were Messrs. Sawyer, Holmes, Hill and Howard. The interment was in Newton Cemetery.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The men of the city will have a treat next Sunday afternoon when Judge Robert F. Raymond will speak to men at the Newton Young Men's Christian Association. Mr. William M. Flanders of Newton Centre will lead the singing. This service will be conducted by the men of the Newton Centre Methodist Church. It is hoped that a large number of men from all parts of the city will be present. The meeting will begin at 3:15 p. m.

At the meeting of the Board of Directors last Monday evening reports of the Toronto Conference were read by Mr. Wm. Macpherson and H. W. Bascom. Glowing accounts of the work were presented by the Chairmen of Committees, and the most successful year in the history of the Association seems assured. The fiscal year closed October 31st with a balance on hand of $25.31 and all bills paid. Forty-nine Senior and sixty-three Junior memberships were received during the month of October.

O, we've had a state election and the people have turned out. And ballots thick as autumn leaves are scattered all about. And some were aimed at Draper and some had aims at Foss; And to tell where some had aims I'm really at a loss.

Gov'nor Draper lives in Hopedale, Foss in Jamaica Plain. And the ballots for the latter were as thick as last week's rain. And Weeks lives out in Newton, And, why does memory dodge? Someone tell me, O pray tell me, Where does Henry Cabot Lodge? O, it's up to Charley Hatfield, The handwriting on the wall, Up to him to read the omen, And the meaning of it all. To interpret it correctly, I must confess, I can't, But it looks to me like snowing in the village of Nahant.

ANOTHER ZERO GAME

The opening game in the Preparatory League between the Newton High and Cambridge Latin School teams was played on Claffin Field Tuesday afternoon, and neither eleven was able to score.

It was one of the fastest and cleanest games ever played between the two schools. During the last two quarters Cambridge Latin slightly outplayed Newton, especially in the last period, which ended in darkness. Cambridge worked several trick plays and the Newton players found it difficult to distinguish who was carrying the ball. Cambridge Latin had the ball on Newton's 15-yard line when the game closed.

Marshall tried a goal from place-kick in the second period, which fell short of the goal posts. Captain Harry Grant tried two field goals and missed. Newton displayed more ginger than it has in any of the previous games. Captain Rider, Blue, MacNeil, Brady and the Clark brothers played splendidly for Newton. Marshall's punting was of high order, and Newton gained ground every time he kicked.

LASELL SEMINARY.

Mrs. Fenetta Sargent Haskell, reader and impersonator, will give a recital at Lasell Seminary, Saturday afternoon, Nov. 19, at 1:40. The public is cordially invited.

AN UNWELCOME VISITOR

A bold, bad skunk patrolled Main and Exchange Streets, through the busy section of the town Saturday evening, and it would seem that he perfumed the whole village with an odor from other of roses. The skunk, in a way, was not wholly to blame for the wide circulation of scent, especially on the inside of some of the business houses, which is attributed to C. F. Bigelow's fox terrier. Mr. Bigelow, hearing a disturbance in the rear of the express office, found his dog, and what he thought was a cat, in a fierce battle. On trying to separate them he decided it was a skunk. The dog seemed to be extremely affectionate after the battle and took particular pains to call on his many friends. His reception was not as cordial as usual. The skunk was finally killed on Exchange Street by L. S. Billings. Mr. Bigelow didn't like the idea of burying his pet dog, and so invested in a bottle of CARBONAL. The dog was given a good washing in it and his bed saturated. It was a cure and the next morning Toby was on a par with any sweet scented lap dog in the village. —Athol, Mass., Chronicle.

BAD ACCIDENT

John Kelly, a laborer, living at 962 Walnut street, Newton Highlands, had a severe experience Monday evening, when he left a street car on Washington street near Lowell avenue and attempted to cross the tracks, without using the bridge. He fell down a high stone embankment, breaking his leg and severely bruising his body. His calls for help brought no assistance so he was compelled to creep up the embankment, where he was found by Officer Kimball and taken to the Newton Hospital, where he will recover.

LONG SERVICE

At the October quarterly meeting of the trustees of the Newton Savings Bank John Ward, Esq., and William C. Strong, Esq., resigned as trustees, they having served the Bank in that capacity respectively since 1862 and 1883. Both gentlemen claimed that it was due the Bank that they be succeeded by younger men but they both remain as yet on the list of Corporators. The resignations were accepted with suitable remarks and votes of appreciation and esteem.

His Treasurer Knew.

He who goes into politics must remember what he is recorded to have said, for it is the habit of the sharp nosed public to search out past utterances and hold the candidate responsible for them. John Burns, says Mr. Grubb in his life of that labor leader, once made the slip of remarking that no man was worth more than £500 a year. Accordingly, when he became a cabinet member with a salary of £2,000, he was obviously open to attack.

When he first met his constituents at Battersea after he was made president of the local government board a candid friend recalled the statement about a man's worth by calling out in the middle of his speech:

"What about that 'ere salary of £2,000?"

Mr. Burns was equal to the occasion. "That is the recognized trade union rate for the job," was his apt reply. "If I took less I would be a black-leg."

"What yer goin' ter do with the £1,500 over?" pursued the inquisitive questioner.

"For details," answered Mr. Burns, "apply to my treasurer, Mrs. Burns."

One of Dr. Hale's Jokes.

When he was quite a young man the late Dr. Edward Everett Hale played a practical joke on some girls who were members of a party with whom he was summing on the Massachusetts coast.

All these girls were reading the same exciting novel, and one day at dinner it was a leading topic. Knowing that none of them had finished it, Hale, unknown to them, carried it away with him the next morning when he went to the city. On the train he wrote an absurd conclusion to the novel, laying the final scene at the summer resort.

Carrying this bogus conclusion to a publisher, a friend of his, he had it put in type, and then, carefully removing the bona fide conclusion, he pasted in his own. On his return he placed the book on the piazza and waited. The look which spread over a girl's face as she read that last chapter was, Dr. Hale declared, worth going far to see.—Woman's Home Companion.

The Flying Dutchman.

The Flying Dutchman was a ship which was sometimes visible from various points of land, but more particularly from the Cape of Good Hope in very stormy weather. The story runs that her captain once swore so fearful an oath that as a punishment for his blasphemy he was condemned to beat about the oceans until the day of judgment. The Flying Dutchman was never known to get into port and was generally seen sailing under full canvas before a strong wind. The myth is generally understood to have had its origin in the waterspout, which in the distance resembles a sailing vessel.

Very Fortunate.

One evening just after dinner a young husband of Indianapolis was, in accordance with his custom, giving his better half the gist of the news when suddenly he laid down the paper with this exclamation:

"By George! Here's an account telling how during the recent storm off the New England coast a ship loaded with passengers went ashore. Why, that vessel belonged to my uncle Tom in Portland!"

"How fortunate!" returned the young wife. "And just think how glad those passengers were to get to dry land!"—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

The Poor Milkman.

A family living in an eastern city found a good deal of cream on a bottle of milk which had been standing overnight, and when the driver called in the morning the pleased servant held it up to the light and said, "Look here, I have never seen anything like this before on your milk."

The man looked at it for a moment, scratched his head and replied, "Well, I don't know what's the matter, but you can throw it out, and I'll give you a fresh bottle in its place."

Rebuked.

Higgins—How is it you are always idling about? I never see you when you have anything to do. Wiggins—The fact is it takes so much of my time looking after other folks' business I have none left for looking after my own. Don't you find something like the same trouble yourself?—Boston Transcript.

The Best Ever.

Gentleman—But I am afraid he wouldn't make a good watchdog. Man (with bull terrier)—Not a good watchdog! Why, Lor! bless your 'eart, it was only last week that this very animal held a burglar down by the throat and beat his brains out with his tail.—London Tatler.

What Struck Him.

"Did anything about the defendant strike you as being out of the ordinary?" asked the judge of the plaintiff in a case of assault and battery. "Yes, your honor," was the reply. "What was it?" queried the judge. "His fist," answered the plaintiff.—Chicago News.

Rain and the Scot.

Dr. John Watson (Ian MacLaren) says: "Never ask a Scotchman if it is raining. I have never heard a Scot admit that the rain is falling. What I have heard him say is that if it goes on as it is now it will turn out wet."

Mutual Surprise.

She—When I married you I had no idea that you would stay away from home so much. He—Well, neither had I.—Life.

Too Cold For the Candle.

It is a cold climate in which a flame cannot keep itself warm. One of the scientists attached to the Peary expedition has personally told of the effect of intense cold on a wax candle that he tried to burn. The temperature was 35 degrees below zero, and its effects were felt not only by the members of the expedition, but even by the candle in question. It gave forth no cheery light such as might have been expected from it in other circumstances, and when it came to be examined it was found that the flame had all it could do to keep itself warm. The air was so cold that the flame was not powerful enough to melt all the wax of the candle, but was compelled to eat its way down, leaving a skeleton structure of wax in the form of a hollow cylinder. Inside this cylinder the wick burned with a tongue of yellow fire, and here and there the heat was sufficient to perforate the outer covering and leave holes of odd shapes which turned the cylinder into a tube of incandescent wax, through the holes in which the light shone with a strange, weird beauty.—St. Louis Republic.

Directions In London.

In London and throughout the tight little island the words "up" and "down" have a peculiar significance. In going to London from any part of England you go "up." In traveling in any direction from the capital you go "down." So in London itself everything goes "up" if it goes in the direction of the bank—that is, the Bank of England—and going from that center toward any of the points of the compass is to go "down."

The word bank, which is not only always spelled with a capital "B," but is always uttered with an impressiveness that suggests an initial letter of the largest type, may be said to be in a sense interchangeable with city, a term of equal dignity and value in the eyes of Englishmen and likewise invariably adorned with a capital "C."

The city does not mean London by any means. It means a certain limited section of London, the part where business is mainly carried on and where the great financial institutions stand.

A Poor Fit.

George Graham Vest once won a case for his client by a neat retort. To testify against Vest's client there was brought into court a certain witness whose ill favored countenance matched his unsavory reputation in the community. The man's testimony was most unfavorable to the defendant, and so, of course, Vest proceeded to discredit his story. As the witness was unkempt and poorly clad, his clothes hanging about him in innumerable folds and wrinkles, the counsel for the opposing side endeavored in their turn to make it appear that Vest was making capital of the poor appearance of the man. Mr. Vest, of course, denied this allegation in the course of his closing remarks, adding: "Gentlemen of the jury, if that man's face fit him as well as his coat he would be a good looking man."

The jury returned a verdict for the defendant.

Close Range Duels.

During the first fifty years of the old American navy, 1798-1848, the mortality of naval officers resulting from duels was two-thirds that resulting from naval wars. In the eighty-two duels listed by a recent writer thirty-six men were killed, all naval officers except three civilians. The per cent of mortality was 22, or five times the mortality of the federal army in the civil war. One-half of those not killed in these duels were wounded. The large number of casualties was undoubtedly due to the short distance between the combatants, which customarily was only ten paces, or thirty feet. In a few duels the distance was even less. In the Barron-Decatur duel it was twenty-four feet and only twelve in the Bainbridge-Cochran duel.

Led by the Nose.

An analytical chemist was retained as a skilled witness some years ago where there were questions of analytical chemistry. There was one case where a farmer had bought some artificial manure, and he was being sued for the price of it. He resisted payment on the ground that the material had none of the qualities of manure at all. The expert chemist was one of the witnesses and had stated that, although the substance had the smell, it had none of the chemical qualities of manure. Under cross examination he was asked, if that was so, how did he account for hundreds of the best farmers having taken the manure for many years. "They must have been led by the nose," returned the witness.—Dundee Advertiser.

Advantages of Matrimony.

Friend—Did you lose anything in the Bustall bank?
Depositor—Not a cent.
"Well, well! If you knew the thing was going up, why didn't you say so?"
"I didn't know. I had to go off on business, so I left my wife some blank checks. She went shopping."

Accustomed to Luxuries.

Mr. Courting (exhibiting penknife)—This handle is pure silver. What do you think of that? Little Girl—Huh! That's nothing. Sister's teeth is on a plate of pure gold.

Undaunted.

Nervous Employer—Thomas, I wish you wouldn't whistle at your work. Office Boy—I ain't working, sir; I'm only just whistling.

Habit tends to make us permanently what we are for the moment.

FOOD SANITATION CONFERENCE.

That the conference idea is this year to be an increasing success in the work of the State Federation departments was shown by the large number who went to Jamaica Plain on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 2nd, for the conference of the Food Sanitation Department. Aside from the one on civics no other conference last year was so largely attended as this one on Wednesday.

The conference was called to order by Mrs. Alice A. Clarke of Attleboro, chairman of the department, who presented Mrs. Charles H. Adams, president of the Tuesday Club, the hostess of the afternoon. After a brief word of greeting from Mrs. Adams the program as arranged was taken up.

Mrs. Lillie F. Lawson of Somerville, a member of the committee, spoke of the conditions of markets and of methods of handling foods. She said that women are largely responsible for unsanitary conditions existing in local markets, partly from the fact that so many do their marketing by telephone and seldom go near the market to see the conditions under which the food is kept. Customers and shopkeepers alike need instruction. A great deal of good has been done by a committee of Boston women in inspecting markets during the past year and she suggested that similar work might be done by the club women in other smaller cities.

"Sanitary Bakeries" was the next subject to be considered. Miss Mary C. Wiggin, secretary of the Massachusetts Consumers' League, told of investigations into the condition of bakeries which she carried on last spring at the suggestion of the Federation. Her work revealed the need of these reforms: abolition of basement bakeries, screening of doors and windows, machine-mixing of bread, and medical examination of bakers. The League has created a "white list" of bakeries. Those who are placed on it, the League recommends as showing reasonable cleanliness in all processes of manufacture, fair conditions for employees, including a maximum working week of sixty hours, and complete separation of bakeries from living and sleeping rooms. A copy of this white list may be obtained upon application to the secretary at 4 Joy street, Boston. Miss Wiggin suggested that the women may help by sending names of local bakeries to be investigated or by looking into conditions in their own towns; but she also said that a little experience is needed in doing this work. In closing she bespoke the vigorous co-operation of the clubs.

Mrs. Jeanette M. Tyler of Abington spoke of the "honest label" and all that it guarantees. She pointed out the dangers of the use of benzate of soda and other preservatives. She urged the women to read the labels on the goods they buy, and mentioned some of the good things that had been gained through the enforcement of the recent pure food and drug act.

The next point to be discussed was the milk question and Mrs. Willard E. Dow of Braintree told of the results of her investigation in this direction. She urged the gospel of cleanliness and the great necessity of the milk's being pure and clean. She pointed out the need of uniform state laws and called attention to the complicated methods of inspection and the difficulty it is to get boards of health to act in these matters. By means of a moving picture film a vivid sermon was preached in regard to the dangers of impure milk, the wrong and the right way in which milk should be produced. It spoke louder than any words are possible to do.

The last topic to be considered was that of the fly pest. Another moving picture film was shown that spoke even louder than the previous one. Illustrating the methods of breeding and their rapid multiplication. Mrs. Abbie R. Bond of Beverly, another member of the committee, in connection with the picture spoke of various methods of disposing of flies. The most effective seem to be to catch them and actually kill them or to prevent them from breeding. She mentioned various methods which have been recommended one being a weak solution of formalin and water, but even that is of no effect unless the fly drinks it. The question seems to be as to how to get the fly to do it.

Miss George A. Bacon opened the discussion, urging the women to study into the question of milk supply, and saying that it is for us to educate the people and to keep ourselves clean and our premises clean, if we are to have success in our undertaking. Many questions were asked showing that the women are alive to these important matters and anxious to know how to make the needed improvements. A social hour with refreshments followed the conference which may well be considered a very successful one.

GIFT FURNITURE

ought to be ordered now for Christmas. All our Morris chairs and furniture of every sort comes to us in the white. (Incidentally, we can tell then just exactly how it is made.) We put all the finish on ourselves, treating each piece individually and giving it just the treatment it requires.

This all takes time if it is rightly done. A week later we cannot promise delivery for Christmas. Our own finish costs you no more than stock finishes bought elsewhere.

THEATRES

B. F. Keith's Theatre—The most important announcement of the year to date in connection with B. F. Keith's theatre is the appearance of Gus Edwards, the song writer and composer of "School Days" and hundreds of others in a big production called Gus Edwards' "Song Revue". In this number Mr. Edwards will be supported by a company of thirty three singers and dancers, and he has one of the most elaborate productions ever made in vaudeville. There is a constant change of scenery, seventeen different pictures being shown during the progress of the act, and the company includes a number of soloists who sing Mr. Edwards' latest songs. The surrounding bill will be in keeping with this feature, and will include Laddie Cliff, the famous English boy dancer and comedian; Harry Tighe and his colleagues in a new sketch called "Thursday Night"; Sammy Watson's Farmyard Circus with the trained roosters, ducks, dogs, donkey and the educated pig; Leonard and Whitney in a new comedy sketch; Spencer Kelly and Marion Wilder in a new comedy sketch; Karl, the famous one string violinist; and the Krimla Sisters in a novelty act.

Boston Theatre—"The Speckled Band." An Adventure of Sherlock Holmes by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle enters into its fourth successful week at the Boston Theatre Monday night. Additional interest has been shown in this play through Mr. Gillette's revival of Sherlock Holmes at the Hollis St. Theatre and many who witnessed the latter's performance have also witnessed the performance of "The Speckled Band". Theatregoers' love of melodrama shows no signs of diminution. It is sometime since we have seen so thrilling a piece of this class or one better played. There are many intense highly dramatic scenes. The interest is aroused at the beginning and sustained to the dramatic climax at the end and there is not a dull moment in the three acts of this sensational drama. Matinees will be given on Wednesday and Saturday. Special attention is being given to out of town orders.

Castle Square Theatre—"Going Some" which John Craig will produce at the Castle Square next week, is a farce that will produce no little laughter at its comic scenes and characters. Its authors are Rex Beach and Paul Armstrong, and it tells a merry tale of life in the Far West. There are Indians, cowboys, college youths, pretty girls, and a multitude of characters that give merriment to every scene, and as a whole "Going Some" is a decided novelty in farces, few of which take the audience into the wild and woolly regions of the west. Picturesque scenery will add to the interest of Mr. Craig's production of "Going Some".

Boston Opera House—The repertoire of the week commencing Monday the 14th will be as follows: The production of Gounod's "Faust" essentially entirely novel to American aud.

leues, will be given on Monday night. Alice Nielson will sing the role of Marguerite. Wednesday evening Nov. 16th at 8 "L'Enfant Prodigue" with Alice Nielson as Lia will be given its first American production. This opera will be followed by Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci" with Florencio Constantino as Canio. "La Boheme" will be presented on Friday evening Nov. 18th at 8 and Alice Nielson will sing Mimì. At the Saturday matinee on Nov. 19th at 2, Rossini's "Barber of Seville" will be presented. Lydia Lipkowska will sing the role of Rosina, and Florencio Constantino the role of Count Almaviva. Saturday evening, Nov. 19th at 7.45 at popular prices, Verdi's "Aida" will be presented with Carmen Melis as Aida.

For the Heavens Only.

A collection was being taken up in a Scotch church one Sunday on behalf of the heathen. The minister made a stirring appeal, and the worshipers started his round with the box.
One of the first members of the congregation to whom he offered it, says a writer in the Church Family Newspaper, was evidently ill disposed to the cause.

In a stage whisper, heard alike by congregation and pastor, this man said
in blank vernacular:

"Tak' it awn, lad. I'm not going to give out."

At that period the collection boxes
were taken direct into the vestry.
Down came the preacher from the pulpit, went into the vestry, brought out one of the boxes and marched straight toward the gentleman, all the congregation imagining that the minister was going to shame the unbeliever into giving something.

The clergyman offered the box to the heretic with the naive remark:

"Tak' what thou wantest, lad. It has been gathered for the heathen."

Correct Time in Egypt.

The working of the oriental mind was delightfully illustrated in a story which Professor Turner told the Mathematical association. He had been spending the Christmas vacation in Egypt to supervise the erection of a telescope at Helwan. Captain Lyons, who was in charge of the instrument,
said that he had found that at noon every day a gun was fired and was anxious to know how the system worked. Accordingly he interviewed the gunner and asked how he knew when to fire the signal. "Oh, I look at my watch," said the official. "And how do you correct your watch?" asked the captain. "I take it to the maker
in Cairo and he tells me the error." tf Forthwith Captain Lyons interviewed the watchmaker and asked him how he checked the error of the watch. "I get the correct time from the gun," said that simple craftsman. And thus time was told in Egypt.—London Standard.

The Chinaman's Will—A Puzzle.

sheep and three sons and, making a will, left one-half of his estate to his eldest son, one-fourth to the next and one-sixth to the third son. They wished to divide without killing a sheep, but could not see how to do it, so they sent for a wise man. Sending to his own fold for a sheep, he put it in with the eleven. Now take your half—six,
said he to the eldest, and he did so;
the second, take your fourth—three;
the younger, take your sixth and begone—two, and they all did so, when the wise man drove his own sheep home.

Was the division according to the will?

Considerate.

"What shall we do, John," said the farmer's wife, who had retained much of her sentiment through twenty-five years of married life—"what shall we do to celebrate our silver wedding?"
"Reckon up where all the silver's gone to in bringing up our family," grumbled he.

"Oh, no, John; it must be something real good and out of the ordinary. I tell you what. Let us kill the fattest pig and give a banquet."

"Maria," said the husband solemnly,
"I don't see how the unfortunate animal is to blame for what happened twenty-five years ago."

Manifested the Makings.

Alderman Smith's baby was being christened, and everybody present was complimenting the happy parents.
"I believe," said the proud mother,
"that he is going to be a great politician some day."
"Why?" asked the ruddy faced father.
"Well, because he crawls out of everything so easily," said the wife, smiling up into her husband's face.—
Lippincott's.

An Old Verb.

To laze is an old verb. In Samuel Rowlands' "Martin Markall," 1610, we are told that "lozers lize in the streets, lurke in niches and range in the highwales." The word occurs,
I believe, in some of Mortimer Collins' lyrics.

But Cupid lazeth 'mongst the fairy leazes,
Whose clere complexion he oft aweareth passes.

How Erin and Scotia See Things.

We don't suppose a Scotchman and an Irishman will ever be able to peacefully settle an argument, because hotter the Irishman feels.—Puck.

Family Joy.

"When you were courting me," said his wife, "you declared there wasn't another woman in the world like me."
"Yes," replied her husband, "and I'm glad of it—for the sake of other men."

All the Same to Him.

LITTLE CHANGE

Nomination papers for Republican primaries for the city election were filed with the Republican city committee yesterday afternoon at Masonic building, Newtonville. A complete list was filed in each ward except Ward 4, where the names for school committee and ward committee were delayed. The vacancies will be filled by the city committee. Only one contest is in sight for the Republican nomination, that in Ward 1 for alder-

as follows:

Marvin, H. M. Davis, H. P. Sheldon, F. W. Freeman.

will probably include H. P. Converse, F. W. Jones, R. G. Whiting, R. C.

school committee, altho the name of Mr. Frank R. Morse is also heard.

You don't approve of hunting.
No, it seems to me cruel to kill a poor little bird for mere sport.
But what about a wild tiger?
Oh, that's another affair. The tiger has a chance to kill you, you know.
Yes, I do know and that's why I hunt birds. I wouldn't have a tiger charged with cruelty on my account.

TWO KILLED

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Batey of Thurston road, Upper Falls, were stuck last evening by a car of the Boston & Worcester Street Railway Company
on Boylston street, near Hartford street, Newton Highlands. Mr. Batey died a half hour after reaching the hospital and Mrs. Batey expired at 1:30 this morning.

They had driven to Brookline
in a buggy and were on their way home
when the accident occurred.

They were crossing the east-bound track when a Boston-bound car that had just come down the steep grade on the Boylston street hill struck the horse and part of the buggy.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Batey were thrown out. The horse was killed.
The carriage was smashed into kind-ling, the wreckage being scattered for rods along the tracks. The front part of the electric car was somewhat damaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Batey moved to Newton Upper Falls four years ago, coming from Saxonville. Mr. Batey was a skilled machinist in the Saco-Petee works at Upper Falls. The seven children are Charles, Robert, Margaret, Thomas, Helen, Edna and Dorothy. Charles, the oldest, is 23 years of age and Dorothy, the youngest daughter, is 6.

Boston Opera House—It will be of immense interest to those opera lovers who do not live in Boston to learn that the Boston Opera Company is ready to assure its out-of-town patrons that the performances during the coming season will terminate in ample time for them to catch their trains.
Besides, the management has negociated with the various railroads entering Boston for an arrangement whereby special cars to accommodate the operating public will be attached to the trains going into and leaving Boston on the nights of the performance. With these added accommodations there is no doubt that the liberal patronage extended by New Englanders at large to the Boston Opera Company during the last season will be still further increased for the artists comprising the operatic troupe of Boston form a galaxy of stars probably never before equalled in the history of grand operas, and the repertoire comprises 32 standard operas, while the productions are to surpass in ensemble and brilliancy of stage effects even those of last year which placed the Boston Opera House almost at once in the forefront of the world's operatic institutions. For the further accommodations of its out-of-town patrons the Boston Opera Company has inaugurated a mail order system which will enable those desirous of hearing a certain opera to secure their seats in advance and enjoy an opera performance without taking the chance of encountering a sold-out house. A letter, with check or money order, addressed to the box office of the Boston Opera House, will be given immediate attention and as a week's repertoire is given out several days in advance it is very easy to decide and make arrangements for any given night.

THE VALUE OF ADVERTISING.

A Wisconsin professor recently instituted an inquiry as to why the value of advertising increases in such enormous ratio to the amount of space used. He found that a one page advertisement was not twice the value of a half page advertisement, as might be imagined, but 25 times the value;
that a half page was 15 times the value of a quarter page, and a ten line agate announcement, in comparison
even with a quarter page advertisement was not to be mentioned at all.
It is interesting to discover why this is so, for it would appear that a half page advertisement is big enough to be read quite as easily as a page advertisement, and affords room for whatever statement of fact the merchant or manufacturer desires to bring to public attention.

The secret seems to lie in the prestige acquired by the use of the larger space. The public is impressionable.
If the common mind can be made to think in a certain way or direction it may be said to be impressed with the idea conveyed. Once so impressed, the public is likely to act in accordance with that idea. The public moves as a crowd, is swayed by what may be called the intelligence of the crowd, as distinguished from the intelligence of the individual. How otherwise may we account for the phenomenon exhibited when people put themselves to actual discomfort in order to purchase where there is a great crowd, where goods of equal quality and the same price may be had elsewhere in places that are not crowded? A certain dealer obtains vogue and becomes the fashion; people talk of his establishment, of his goods, and of the throngs of purchasers; and this prestige adds to his trade.—Western Publisher.

WALTHAM JEWELRY CO., 227 Moody StreetA Curious Painting.

In Japan there is a very famous painting which no amount of money could buy and which is the master piece of a famous artist who lived several centuries ago. Viewing the painting in the daytime, one is disappointed. It shows nothing more than a very commonplace landscape—unrelieved by mountains or hills. As soon, however, as night falls one begins to realize the peculiar merit of the picture, for upon the canvas there appears a luminous water buffalo (caribou) browsing upon the grass at its feet. The artist who painted this picture discovered a certain phosphorescent paint, which he obtained from the bottles of certain mollusks or fish, and with which he painted the buffalo that, invisible in daylight, is luminously brilliant in the dark. The secret of making this painting died with the artist. The picture, which hangs in a Buddhist temple, has proved a fertile source of superstition, the priests claiming that the buffalo hides away in the shade behind some trees in the picture during the heat of the day, coming out at night to graze.

Startled Their Host.

A New Yorker decided to give a dinner in recognition of hospitality shown upon him by his friends recently. He asked two women he knew to go to a jeweler's and pick out some little souvenirs for the women guests, says the New York Sun. The host did not know it, but a detective accompanied the gifts to the house. Each woman found at her place at the table a handsome box. When these were opened there were cries of admiration. One woman drew out a diamond ring, another an emerald brooch, another a diamond crescent, a fourth a necklace of pearls, another a diamond tiara, and so on, until the output of the boxes represented about $50,000. The host had forced a smile when the first box was opened. As each trinket revealed seemed more costly than the last his jaw fell. Perspiration began to trickle down his face, which got so red that the women became alarmed. Then they explained that the jewels were a joke and were borrowed for the occasion.

The Picture in the Watch.

The following anecdote is related of Jerome Bonaparte: He had been playing cards until he lost all his ready money, then pledged his rings and finally laid his watch on the table. It was a small gold one, the back of which opened with a spring. A lady overlooking the game admired the watch and took it up to examine it. On her attempting to open the back Jerome immediately clasped it and said that must not be done. His wife, who stood by, insisted upon knowing what was in it, grew angry, reproached him with having some keepsake of a favorite there and finally, bursting into tears, quit the room. Jerome then opened the watch and showed to all present that it contained a beautiful miniature of his first wife, Betsy Patterson, with the remark, "You see, I hope, that I could not with propriety let her see it." It was notorious that he remained deeply attached to his first wife long after their separation.

The Mule's Ears.

Evolutionists explain satisfactorily that the reason that the dog's ears lop is because for centuries the animal has been domesticated by man and has lain within the protecting influence of his hut and fire. The dog's ears are said to have originally stood upright, as do the wolf's today, but gradually became less imperative the dog's ears began to lop. But how about the mule? It is the duty of somebody to explain why the mule's ears have not lopped down. There is no need for him to have stiff ears. The donkey, the horse and their progeny, the mule, have been under man's protecting influence for centuries and ages. The ass is the beast of burden of the Bible. His ears were stiff then, and they are stiff now. It would seem it was about time for them to begin to lop a little. —Indiana Farmer.

A Very Queer Custom.

A curious custom takes place in villages of the Luxembourg district, Belgium, in May. After Sunday service numbers of lads cluster round the church entrance and as the girls come out seize them one by one, one lad grasping a girl by the shoulders and the other by the heels, the two lifting her well up, while a third bumptin passes under the human bridge thus formed. This is done in the presence of the parents, who themselves have passed through the same ordeal.

His Sole Resting Place.

A precise Boston teacher spent a quarter of an hour in impressing upon her class the right pronunciation of the word vase.

Next day, hoping to reap the fruits of her labor, she asked, "Now, Johnnie, tell me—what do you see on the mantelpiece at home?"

And Johnnie piped forth, "Father's feet, ma'am." —Harper's Bazar.

Proved.

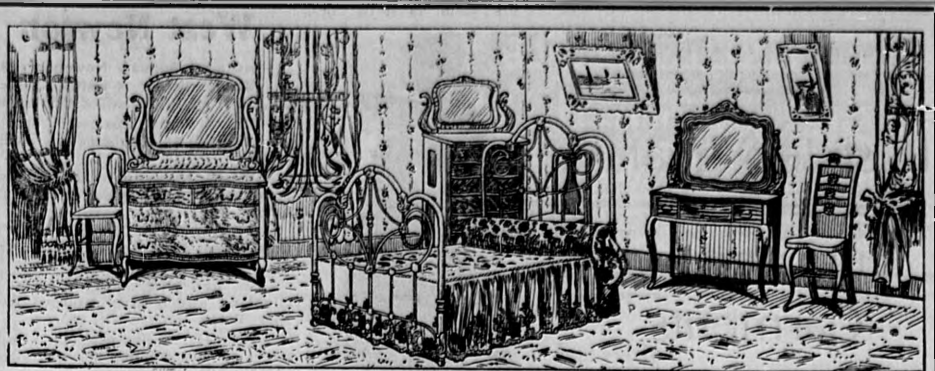

Gibbs—What makes you think they had theaters in Plimouth's time? Dibbs—Didn't Joseph's brethren remove him from the family circle and put him in the pit?

Candid.

Top (who has dined off hashed nut-ton)—Bill, waiter—What did you have, sir? Top (casually)—I haven't the faintest idea.—London Tit-Bits.

Thought He Was Smart.

Wife—Don't mean to insinuate that your judgment is superior to mine? Husband—Certainly not, my dear. Our choice of life partners proves it isn't.

Everything is comparative. If You have not seen the best it is quite easy to be content with something else

STATE FEDERATION MEETS

Upwards of 1000 women attended the annual meeting of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs at Cambridge on Tuesday of this week. The First Baptist Church was well filled at the hour of opening and before the day was over its seating capacity was taxed to its utmost. Sedition has there been a meeting when everything went with the smoothness with which it did on Tuesday. There was no hitch anywhere so that all most concerned with its success must feel complete satisfaction with the results.

Promptly at the appointed hour Miss George A. Bacon, president of the Federation, called the meeting to order and presented Mrs. Charles M. Bonney, president of the Cambridge Club, the hostess for the day. Mrs. Bonney said that five hundred women offered a cordial, sincere and hearty welcome to every one present. She spoke of her club as a willing follower of intelligent leadership, of its cooperation with the suggestions of the Federation, of its belief in the interchange of ideas with other clubs and of its motto, service.

Miss Bacon in her response emphasized the value of meeting and working together for the betterment of the home, the state and the nation. She also took occasion to thank the clubs for copies of their Year Books and season tickets to their meetings and only regretted that she could not attend all.

The following resolution was adopted by the meeting:

Whereas, The Federation vigorously deprecates the publication of such details as are a menace to public morals, and especially injurious to the taste and the character of growing children in our homes;

Resolved, That we oppose this evil in all practical ways and that we endeavor to develop public opinion to appreciate this danger. We earnestly appeal to editors to aid us in our efforts to place in our homes only those publications containing news not objectionable.

As has been the custom for some time past, the program followed the lines of work of one of the departments of the Federation. At this meeting it was that of Art. Two addresses were given in the morning, one by Mr. Morrison Patterson of the University of the South, upon "Ideals in Civic Art," and another by Mr. John J. Enneking of Boston on "Art From the Artist's Point of View."

Following these, Mrs. May Alden Ward presented a tribute to the memory of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, honorary president of the Federation, after which Mrs. James G. Harris rendered Chopin's Funeral March upon the organ.

After the intermission during the half-hour before the afternoon session Mrs. Harris gave an organ recital. A baritone solo by Mr. Albert Edmund Brown opened the program for the afternoon. Mr. Alfred W. Martin, associate leader of the New York Society for Ethical Culture, spoke on "Art as an Interpretation of Human Life." The lecture was illustrated by a special collection of lantern slides. The session closed appropriately with the singing of Mrs. Howe's "Battle Hymn of the Republic," led by the Cantabrigia Club chorus with Mrs. Florence Lee Whitman as conductor.

Mr. Morrison Patterson in his address on "Ideals in Civic Art" said in part:

Civic art was at first dismissed by the business man as impractical. The reformers girded up their loins and went to work to prove that it is not only practical but it pays—it brings in money to a community. At that magic word "money," to which America so humbly bows, a large contingent of the enemy promptly surrendered.

In spite of this encouragement, the battle is far from won. Some of our leading business men still hold tight to their former prejudices. It goes without saying that miles of water-fronts are respectfully preserved as the most convenient and picturesque locality for a general dumping ground. Something is wrong and the question is what can be done to meet the situation.

It is astonishing what opportunities are lost by civic workers because their outlook is too narrow. Because they omit in their organization some of the most important departments of possible activity. Starting with the idea that they must first clear the ground of obstacles and lay a foundation for the future, they forget that a superstructure is to follow. The only statesman-like attitude is to keep in mind that it pays to look ahead and also to look around.

The statesman-like reformer has a thousand eyes, each trained to a particular vision. This comprehensive vision is the primary condition of complete civic organization. After enthusiasm has been aroused, and after responsible men and women have joined the crusade against congestion and chaos, it will depend upon a few individual leaders to stamp the character of the whole movement, either as petty or magnificent, according to their ability to analyze the scope of proposed improvement, to make clear-cut distinctions between the various departments of the civic interests, and to bring about the establishment of authoritative commissions for each particular department. Without such complete organization, the city to be moulded into form becomes as lopsided as the minds of the moulders.

But besides restrictive functions, a municipal art commission needs to exercise its judgment in regard to announcing movements for the erection of distinctive monuments in the way of fountains, statues, bridges and memorial arches. It is certainly no cause for boasting for a city to bristle with expensive civic bric-a-brac, if this bric-a-brac of statues and fountains violate good taste or express no unified basis of choice. As we are proud of a personal flavor in our literature, our music, or our art, so we must look forward to any chance of obtaining such flavor in our civic monuments. As the individual bridges of Venice have to do with the Venetian flavor, so every bridge and arch and statue we erect stamps us according to its spirit and design with a personal distinction.

It seems, however, that in all directions of civic art we have failed to maintain sufficiently radical policies in situations that demand drastic measures. Take the matter of the billboard nuisance. What do we do in regard to it? Fight it to the death as a disgrace to the nation? No. We start a movement to license the billboards or to diminish their size.

What we need is radical action and therefore a radical policy, in regard to all such crimes against civic decency, as flagrant advertising in any form, the cluttering up of streets with telephone poles and wires, the soiling of the buildings and monuments and the clogging of the very air we breathe by factory smoke. With similar radical policies in every department, we should be in the proper mood to demand authoritative commissions for each department, and put an end to the figure-heads that at present decorate our municipal offices in various quarters of the United States.

We are weary, perhaps of being told how ages ago the Greeks developed a sense of poise and elegant simplicity, a general completeness of life that we cannot match as yet—how the Parthenon is a monument to that balance of forces that we have not been able to attain, either as a nation, or as builders of cities, to express the nation's spirit. But the fact remains that a stranger from the moon would be forced by the looks of us to judge us harshly.

What we need as the basis for all our efforts at civic art is more of the Greek completeness of life, broader interests, and a more genuine support of all the fine arts. Wherever in America our philosophy of life puts a crown of laurels on the money-getter and a crown of thorns upon the artist, so-called civic art will continue to be a hollow mockery, and our expensively decorated cities a byword among the nations.

Mr. John J. Enneking spoke of "Art from the Artist's Point of View." In his talk, which was informal, full of interest and entertaining, Mr. Enneking pointed out what he called the five great highways to truth—art, music, poetry, religion and government. All start out in youth on the same plane and by means of science, or in other words expert training they reach the higher plane of knowledge by means of these various highways. Having reached this foundation beyond which most do not go, the genius, whether he be musician, poet, painter or what not, begins his individual creative work and at length arrives at the highest plane of all. As with childhood, so with this high plane, there is no law governing it, it faces the expanse of infinity. The speaker deprecated the lack in this country of art commissions and emphasized their need of them. In commenting upon a famous collection of pictures he said he found in it but two which possessed unity. It is impossible to paint great unity unless you have felt that unity. The artist cannot accomplish anything of real value until he has arrived at this lofty plane where he is at liberty to create for himself.

The afternoon address by Mr. Alfred Martin was greatly enjoyed by all who heard it. He is a forceful speaker and made his subject clear and illuminating. He started with the premise that all art work expresses and interprets the personal ideals of the artist and the dominant ideals of his time and place. He applied this proposition to each of the four great epochs of history—ancient, mediaeval, renaissance and modern—indicating the salient characteristics in the life of each and then demonstrated by reference to typical examples from the arts of architecture, sculpture and painting, how these ideals are expressed and interpreted by the art work.

Beginning with the ancient Egyptian and the Greeks, Mr. Martin passed to the introduction of Christianity into the Greco-Roman world, and its influence on the ideals that prevailed in that world, showing the mighty change that was then wrought in civilization and the prompt expression of it in art. Passing to the Renaissance and its birth (through the influence of St. Francis of Assisi) to the modern era, indicating the distinctive features of the new social ideal of today and then showed by a succession of typical masterpieces of painting how these latter are the expressions of that new ideal.

TRIBUTE TO JULIA WARD HOWE
BY MARY ALDEN WARD.

It is a privilege to voice the tribute of the Federation to Mrs. Howe, but I feel that I have been chosen for a task to which I am not equal—the task of putting into words our recognition of the beautiful life which has just closed; the task of giving expression to our gratitude to the queenly woman who has been for so many years our leader, intellectually and spiritually.

Many organizations, and countless individuals, have paid their tribute to Mrs. Howe, but for none is it more fitting to honor her memory than for the Massachusetts Federation, of which she was the founder, the creator. She conceived the idea of bringing the clubs of the state into a union so that they might be more helpful to each other and thus increase their usefulness to the community. For her to think was to act, and she invited the presidents of those clubs to meet with her for a conference on that subject. The result was the formation of the organization and she was unanimously chosen its first president.

The Federation was happy in having for its first president a woman who had, from her very youth, been devoted to the cause of organized womanhood, and had done all in her power to broaden the horizon of women. She had labored unceasingly to open the doors of the colleges and the professions to them. She had travelled thousands of miles in the interest of the A. A. W., the pioneer association for the advancement of women. Mrs. Howe brought to the Federation the wisdom that she had gained in all those years of experience. While president, she gave herself unsparringly to its interests, holding always before the members the highest ideals. She looked upon it as a grand opportunity for service, and foresaw, at the very beginning, its wonderful possibilities.

But it was not merely to the cause of the advancement of woman in the abstract that Mrs. Howe devoted herself. She had the deepest interest in each individual woman with whom she came in contact. Years ago when Charles Sumner said to her, "I have got beyond the place where I can take an interest in individuals," Mrs. Howe rebuked him by saying, "God Almighty has not gone so far." This warm personal interest, this generous giving of her friendship, was one of her characteristics. No woman appealed to her for help or counsel without receiving the best that she could give. On the day of her death there was many a one to say, "I have lost the best friend a woman ever had."

But to treat of Mrs. Howe's service to women is to touch upon only one side of her life. The wealth of her nature, the breadth of her sympathy gave her a many-sided life, a life of varied activities rarely equalled. She gave her help freely to the struggle for freedom. The Greeks, the Armenians, the Italians, were never weary of showing her gratitude. The Russian exiles were eager to clasp her hand. Other races than her own found in her a friend and defender. Nothing human was foreign to her. She differed from many students in the fact that her life of study did not detach her from human interests.

With her sweetness and tenderness were united the strength and courage which made her willing to espouse a cause she believed just, no matter how unpopular it might be. She threw herself with zeal into the anti-slavery crusade, and to do so was to invite persecution. She enrolled herself among those who were fighting for the equal rights for women in the days when it required an amount of self-sacrifice that we can now scarcely comprehend. Her definition of the ideal aim of life was, "To learn, to teach, to serve, and to enjoy."

This last was not the least of her gifts. One of her charms was her gaiety, her quick sense of humor, her frank enjoyment of life, which added so much to the happiness of others. She never ceased to find the world interesting and to the very end retained her hopefulness and confidence in humanity. In her nineteenth year she told me of a vision which had come to her. She was awakened suddenly in the night by this vision which passed before her as clearly and as vividly as did the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" in her earlier days. She described it as—"A vision of men and women, a vast host whom none could number, working unitedly, equally, with superhuman energy, all for the extirpation of the blackness of vice and for the weal of the race."

In that vision she saw the victory. "All of evil was gone from the earth. Misery was blotted out. Mankind was emancipated and ready to march forward in a new era of human understanding, alienating sympathy, and ever-present help."

It is now to make that vision real. Mrs. Howe was an eager student throughout her life, but the object of her study was always the search for truth. One of her last labors was a message embodying her definition of religion. She was planning to publish it in the hope that it might lead other women to give their sacredness to this subject. This message has not been published, but I am permitted to give it to you today.

"I should say, religion is the loving recognition of the right, and the resolution to aid, further and exemplify it by grateful and willing service to the Divine and the Human. The history of religions shows the progress of the human race, but in it all, the permanence of certain convictions. The habits of Moses still rule the civilized world, and the Christian church still renews them with the doctrines of its Founder. But Christ dares point out the limitations of Moses, and the strength of his gravamen against the Jews lies in their failure to recognize the teachings of the later time. In their blind and literal interpretation of the law, they followed the hardness of their hearts, delivered to them the precepts which they were able to follow, but the new and divine interpretation of the spirit of the law pointed to new duties and required of them fresh sacrifices and efforts, and so I should say any religion which prohibits the onward movement of the human mind, the element of Faith, and Hope, and Love, is wanting, the third and greatest, Charity, is usually also wanting."

Poet, patriot, prophet, philosopher, the ideal American woman. The London Times recently referred to Mrs. Howe as "America's Unconquered Queen." But she was not unconquered. She had the crown of our love, our gratitude, our reverence. When we think that we shall never again hear her voice, that her gracious presence will never be with us, we realize our loss. Yet we rejoice that her life was so completely rounded out, and the world so much richer for her having passed through it.

She would have no sadness connected with the thought of her death. She has told us how to regard it in the beautiful lyric which she named characteristically

"A SPRING SONG."
"Overgrown my grave,
Kindly grass!
Do not wave
To those who pass
A single mournful thought
Of affection come to nought.
Look up to the blue
Where light-hid,
Lives what doth renew Man's Chrysalis.
Say not: She is here;
Say not: She was there;
Say: She lives in God.
Reigning everywhere!"

A few days before her death, at the request of a friend in a foreign land, Mrs. Howe wrote a prayer. I want to read it to you, and I shall ask you to feel that we are joining with Mrs. Howe in this prayer which was her last gift to us.

"Oh! thou whose best gifts are best in that they reveal thyself, be pleased to continue to us, residents in a strange country, the mighty inheritance of our own dear land. The truths made known to saints of old on mountain tops of prayer, or in the whole some valleys of humility, let them guide our feet in the sincerity of wisdom. Never let us doubt that thy loving forethought encircles our path with a principle of defence which cannot be gainsaid nor overcome. May we hold as our greatest treasure the truth that Humanity is one, and to keep its glorious domain, regard must be had to what each may claim from all, and all from each, freedom, sympathy and justice. Let us remember that our lives are not ours to waste in unfruitful pleasures, but in loving service which we shall perform as thou, our God, shalt instruct and guide us, in the name of thy mighty ones who have overcome the deceitful and selfish world, and are gathered in the priceless harvest."

WOMEN'S CLUB NEWS

Miss Grace M. Burt, Editor.

The full beauty and appropriateness of the tribute to the memory of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe at the meeting of the State Federation cannot be reproduced upon paper. The reverent hush that pervaded that great audience both during Mrs. Ward's reading and during the organ selection that followed will not soon be forgotten. Here for once at least was demonstrated the force of the old phrase "a time to keep silence." The president of the Federation is to be congratulated upon the successful manner in which the memorial service was carried out.

The C. L. S. C. will meet with Mrs. Arthur Burnham of Chestnut street, Waban, on Monday afternoon, Nov. 14.

On Tuesday, Nov. 15, at 10:30, Mrs. Lucy Ingram Topliff will lecture before the Auburndale Review Club in the chapel of the Congregational Church.

The Newtonville Woman's Guild will meet on Tuesday afternoon at the New Church parlors. The subject of "Playgrounds" and "Children's Gardens" will be presented. The club has decided to conduct a class in current events as it has for two years past. The date of beginning will be announced later.

At the Social Science Club on Wednesday, Nov. 16, the subject of the paper will be "The Natural Resources of Massachusetts."

"Monologues" by Belle Temple Priest will be the program for the monthly meeting of the Newton Centre Woman's Club on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 17.

The Newton Ladies' Home Circle will meet on Thursday, Nov. 17, at 2:30, in G. A. R. Hall. A social hour with tea will follow the meeting. Members are cordially urged to be present.

The Newton Centre Woman's Club had a treat at its meeting on Thursday morning in the presentation of "Russian Music" by Mr. Alvah Glover Salmon.

Mr. Edward H. Cutler announces a course of four parlor lectures on "Greek Culture," to be given on successive Monday mornings at 11 o'clock beginning on Nov. 21.

The winter's course of study was opened by a paper upon "The Old Bay State," by Mrs. C. O. Tucker. Mrs. Tucker recalled the conditions in the "Mother Country" which led to the embarking of the Pilgrim Fathers for the New World. The paper presented a picture of the early life of the colony with its simplicity and economy and pointed out the superiority of Massachusetts over the other colonies. "The Pilgrims desired freedom," she said, "their desire was to have all sorts of freedom. They were genuine pioneers of both civil and religious liberty and the history of the world since the arrival of the Pilgrims demonstrates that the fruits and issues of their pioneering are the most prodigious in all history."

The Social Science Club met on Nov. 9 with Mrs. H. H. Powers in the chair. The committee on School Gardens was empowered to go on with preparations for continuing the gardens another year and it was stated that Mr. Frank A. Day has generously offered the use of the same land. A small appropriation for this work was made by the club. An additional gift for the work of the Nonantum Day Nursery was also voted.

On Monday afternoon, Nov. 7, the members of the Waban Woman's Club were tendered an informal reception and tea at the home of Mrs. George M. Anzior on Pine Ridge road. An address of welcome by the new president, Mrs. Charles A. Andrews, opened the first meeting of the season. Then followed a musical program including selections by Mrs. Donald Hill and Mrs. Gifford LeClear assisted by Mrs. Theodore Piser. Readings by Miss Ada Phillips concluded the afternoon's entertainment.

At the meeting of the Monday Club of Newton Highlands on Nov. 7, Rev. Milan C. Ayres lectured on "The Influence of America on Shakespeare's Writings." The speaker claims this idea of influence to be wholly original with himself and suggests that returned colonists probably told their stories to the poet in his childhood and that he in turn worked them out later in his writings and points out the "Tempest" as one play in which it is especially visible. A social hour followed. Music was given by Mrs. Wallace at the piano and violin solos by little Miss Mercer, accompanied by Mrs. Mercer.

The club is pleased to announce that through the generosity of Mrs. William May of Newton Centre it has been able to fulfill a long cherished plan, that of furnishing a piano for the Newton City Home on Winchester street, to be used for the pleasure of the inmates. It suggests to all club women that the benefit derived from a visit to the home is mutual and the enjoyment of the social hour with music and readings is far greater to these men and women than can be imagined by anyone who has never visited the home.

Next week the club will meet with Mrs. Martell of Carver road.

Mrs. Leonard Boyd entertained the C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands on Monday afternoon. The subject of the paper was "Our New Possessions," Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippines being treated.

LUCY JACKSON CHAPTER BETTER STREET LIGHTS

The Lucy Jackson Chapter, D. A. R., of Newton met Monday, Nov. 14, at the home of Mrs. Albert Flanders, 49 Longwood avenue, Brookline, Mrs. George H. Talbot and Mrs. Charles D. Meerve being hostesses with her.

After listening to delightful music by Miss Colby, the regent, Mrs. Arthur P. Friend opened the business meeting by reporting the resignation of Mrs. George H. Wilkins as first vice-regent, and that the board of management had elected Miss Lucy Allen to take her place, and Mrs. John N. Eaton to fill Miss Allen's place on the board.

Mrs. George H. Talbot, chairman of the entertainment committee, gave a report on the coming pageant, "Maid of All Nations," to be given in Play-ers Hall, West Newton, Monday evening, Nov. 21, and to be followed by dancing for all. Then the speaker of the afternoon, Miss May Boyle O'Reilly, was introduced, who fascinated her audience with her enthusiastic talk on the Children of the City.

After singing "America" all enjoyed a social hour in the dining room. Mrs. George Hutchinson and Miss Fanny B. Allen served, assisted by young ladies.

MISS COBB LEAVES NEWTON.

The friends of Miss Cora Stanwood Cobb of Boylston street, Newton Upper Falls, will be interested to know that she has accepted the offer to become a member of the firm of Towne & Whitney, photographers, at Gardner, Mass. The studio is well known in northern Massachusetts and in the future will do business under the name of Towne, Whitney & Cobb. Miss Cobb is a life-long resident of Newton, and is well known here in social and intellectual circles. She has also served most acceptably two terms as a member of the Newton School Board. Gifted in many lines, not the least of her accomplishments has been photography, which she has perfected to such a degree that her services have been eagerly sought by these progressive photographers of the well known chair town. Miss Cobb will devote her time to studio work, and will make children's photographs her specialty.

HOSPITAL SUNDAY.

At the Channing Church last Sunday, Rev. Harry Lutz, after calling attention to the coming of Hospital Sunday, closed with these words:

Hospital Sunday brings to the community attention an institution in which the people of Newton may take a justifiable pride. They cannot be too grateful to its founders and devoted supporters. The broad principle of its founding and administration makes every person in the city a party of interest in it and profit by it. The observance of Hospital Sunday by all the churches speaks not only of its unsectarian management, but also of a splendid unity of spirit in its support. It was a privilege last week to visit the hospital and observe the beautiful surroundings, the splendid buildings, the complete appointments, the thorough administration, the efficient service, and the cosmopolitan character of its uses to the whole people. This gives the warrant for unreserved commendation and the earnest appeal for a generous contribution to its support.

The city government were the guests on Tuesday of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company, the occasion being the first time the new Mazda electric street lights were turned on. The party included Mayor Hatfield, Aldermen Higgins, Woods, Cox, Underwood, Lyons, Miller, Chadbourne, Moore, Sullivan, Barker and Towle, City Solicitor Stocum, Assessors L. E. Coffin, J. R. Prescott and Henry Bally, Water Commissioner Whitney, Street Commissioner Ross, City Engineer Rogers, City Clerk Kingsbury, Forest Commissioner Bucknam, City Treasurer Newhall, Chief Randlett, Chief Mitchell and Messrs. Thomas Weston, Jr., E. B. Dane, H. S. Allen, H. P. Young and F. C. Green. A substantial lunch was served at the Edison headquarters, 39 Boylston street, Boston, and automobiles took the party to view the Atlantic avenue and L street plants of the company. It was interesting to note the facts that it takes about 150,000 tons of coal to run the L street plant annually, that 100,000 horsepower is produced constantly each 24 hours with a force of but 60 men, and to witness the working of the powerful turbine engines, the automatic stoking of the boilers and the general cleanliness of the entire plant.

After viewing the plant the automobiles took the party to Commonwealth street lights were turned on. The new street lights were turned on. The new system is in operation the entire length of Commonwealth avenue and from Washington street between West Newton and Park street, and Park and Tremont streets to the Boston line. A view was also taken of the new Tungsten lights recently installed on Washington street between West Newton and the Lower Falls. Most favorable comments were heard on the new street lighting, and officials of the company state that Commonwealth avenue is now the most brilliantly lighted street in the country.

An official account of the matter follows:

Forty candlepower Mazda electric street lights, some 1500 in all, have now been substituted for the old-fashioned 25 candlepower carbon lamps, and the old fixtures have been changed, so that the illumination of the streets is now provided according to the latest scientific methods. The reflectors are so arranged that the light is brought down upon the street and distributed, with the result that a much more even illumination is secured than has heretofore been possible. 107 of the improved Magnette arc lamps rated at 1200 candlepower each have been substituted for the old-fashioned 300 candlepower electric arcs. This substitution has necessitated the change of arc lamp fixtures, and the improvement is strikingly noticeable. All of this work has been done without additional expense to the city of Newton, and it is now possible, under the Edison schedule of street lighting rates, for Newton to burn its lamps all night every night for the small additional cost of approximately $4700 a year. It is remarkable that Newton is, we understand, the only city or town of any considerable size in the Commonwealth, where a large proportion of street lights are burned only until 12:30 each night.

DISTRICT NURSING

The 13th annual meeting of the Newton District Nursing Association was held Monday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. William H. Coolidge, "Gray Cliff," Newton Centre, about 50 ladies being present. The annual reports of the secretary, treasurer and chairman of the supply committee showed that the association was in a flourishing condition. Miss Mary Riddle, matron of the Newton Hospital, spoke on the origin of district nursing. Miss Melick, the Newton school nurse, told of her work in the public schools and Miss Hamilton, head nurse at the Newton Hospital, also spoke. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. W. H. Coolidge; vice-president, Mrs. Francis E. Stanley; secretary, Mrs. H. P. Converse; assistant secretary, Mrs. F. E. Farwell; treasurer, Mrs. Charles L. Smith.

Music and tea were the attractions of the social hour which followed the business meeting.

DRAW JURORS.

At a special meeting of the aldermen on Monday evening, these jurors were drawn for Cambridge court: James G. McGrath, Adams street; Albert D. Locke, Beacon street; Homer L. Bigelow, Old Orchard road; Nils H. Mattson, Coleman street; Walter R. Kattelle, Grove street; John F. Capron, Elmwood street; Wilfred A. Clark, Eddy street; John F. Barnes, Lake avenue.

Orders were also adopted declaring the result of the state election in Newton, and calling the city election on Dec. 13.

In the absence of President Jones and Vice-President Doherty, Alderman F. H. Underwood was chosen chairman pro tem.

CHANNING ALLIANCE FAIR.

In the parlors of Channing Unitarian Church Tuesday a harvest fair was held under the auspices of the Channing Alliance. The proceeds will be devoted to the work of that organization. Mrs. Howard M. North was in general charge of the affair. The decorations combined those of the harvest season with the winter woods. Pumpkins and autumn leaves, together with fir boughs, pine cones and laurel, were massed together, the whole making a pretty picture. The flower booth occupied the centre of the floor space.

Following are the names of the ladies who were in charge of the various tables: Tea garden, Miss Anna Whiting; Mrs. Harry Lutz; Miss Jessie M. Fisher; fancy table, Mrs. Griffin; Mrs. Oliver M. Fisher; food table, Miss Catherine Howard; candy table, Mrs. Ralph W. Bartlett; lemonade table, Miss Louise Emerson; toy table, Mrs. Edward Moore; apron table, Mrs. Joseph N. Palmer; Mrs. James W. McIntyre; mystery table, Mrs. T. O. Loveland; bag table, Miss Hattie Stevens; supper, Miss Caroline Brown.

A unique feature was a "sand-pile grab" for children in which articles were buried in a heap of sand and the children were allowed to dig for them with their hands.

There was a large attendance during the afternoon and evening.

HOSPITAL SUNDAY-WHY?

In 1854 the whole character of hospital service was changed through the heroic labors of one devoted nurse. Her influence has been felt by every hospital in every land; and today the institution stands a safeguard against the inroads of accidents, surgical emergencies and contagious diseases.

The Newton Hospital is our safeguard. It may not be perfect in every detail, but there is an earnest endeavor to make it so, and its progress is due to the loyal support of Newton's churches and Newton's public spirited citizens.

1749 patients were treated at the hospital during the year ending Aug. 31, 1910, and the average number was 98 for every day in the year. The patients came from every walk in life, no class was exempt; all suffered but to the less fortunate came the added burden of dependence upon others.

Attention is called to the interesting statistics and especially to the yearly deficit, $13,319.90. This deficit is the difference between the earning capacity of the hospital and its expenses, and represents the additional amount needed for the charity work.

The work never ceases, and so year by year Hospital Sunday is observed in order that every church and every individual may have a part in this splendid service.

HINCHMAN—HINCHMAN.

Miss Emma Randell Hinchman, daughter of the late John Canover Hinchman, formerly associated with the Western Union Telegraph Company, and Ralph Pratt Hinchman of Brooklyn, N. Y., were quietly married in Grace Episcopal Church, Newton, at 11 o'clock Tuesday forenoon. The bride, who has been a guest at the home of a close friend, Mrs. Louis S. Drake of Bennington street, Newton, wore a travelling gown of blue with hat to match, and carried a large bunch of violets. The only attendants in the wedding party were the two little daughters of Mrs. Drake, Laura and Prudence Drake, who were dressed in white. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Laurens MacLure, D. D., rector of the church. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Hinchman started on a wedding trip and eventually will make their home in Brooklyn.

D. A. R.

At the entertainment to be given in Players' Hall, West Newton, Monday, Nov. 21, at 8 p. m., under the auspices of the Lucy Jackson Chapter, D. A. R., of Newton, Miss Virginia Tanner, who achieved distinction in the recent civic pageant in Boston, will give two of her celebrated dances, an Arabian and a classic.

Tickets, price 75 cents, may be obtained of Mrs. A. Stuart Pratt, West Newton, and Mrs. George H. Talbot, Newtonville.

HUNNEWELL CLUB.

The first assembly will be held on Monday evening, Nov. 21. The matrons will be Mrs. F. E. Stanley, Mrs. Charles W. Hall and Mrs. Joseph N. Damon.

A STEADY AND HEALTHY GROWTH

Although a comparatively young institution, the Lincoln Trust Co. has made a strong place for itself in the business community of Boston. From the very beginning it has had a steady and healthy growth in business and popular confidence. A financial institution of this kind was needed in this part of the city. We believe that results show that we are filling the field satisfactorily.

Located in the heart of the shoe, leather, textile and jobbing districts, we are prepared to pay special attention to the needs of customers in those lines of trade. Some of our directors are individually interested in those lines, and the convenience of location of our banking offices must appeal to the wholesalers and jobbers of this part of the city.

We solicit your business with the utmost confidence that we can handle it with profit and satisfaction to you.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

On Sunday afternoon, Nov. 20, the men of the Newtonville Congregational Church will conduct the services. Brewer Eddy will be the speaker. It is hoped that a large number of men will take advantage of this opportunity to hear Mr. Eddy, who is acknowledged to be one of the best speakers to men in this part of the country. His subject will be "Character Building."

The men of the board of directors are finding so much to do in connection with the enlarged work of the association, that it is necessary now to have a meeting of the board twice a month.

Many ministers will take the opportunity next Sunday of preaching a sermon to young men, this being the last day of the Week of Prayer for young men which is observed not only by the men of the Y. M. C. A. but by the men of the Church Brotherhoods as well.

On Dec. 7 and 8 a bazaar of the months will be held in the rooms of the Newton Y. M. C. A. Those who experience difficulty in selecting their Christmas present will do well to wait and make their selection from the large number of things which the ladies of the Auxiliary will have for sale. At this bazaar bags, aprons, dolls, baby clothes, fancy articles, cake, candy, groceries, ladies' and gentlemen's neckwear, ice cream, etc., will be for sale at the different booths. The entire second floor of the building will be turned over to the ladies for these two days. Whatever money is raised will go to meet the pledges of the ladies for the work of the boys' department and to help swell their fund which they are raising to help furnish the new building.

PHYSICAL DEPARTMENT

A meeting was held in the rooms last Thursday night to discuss the advisability of conducting a Sunday School Athletic League. The first and second basketball teams opened their season with Somerville Y. M. C. A. Wednesday, Nov. 16. Games will be played on nearly every Wednesday from this date.

TRAINS DELAYED.

Suburban residents who patronize the Boston & Albany railroad had considerable trouble in getting home Monday afternoon. The new electric interlocking switch system which was installed Sunday caused the trouble and all the trains were tied up. Men thinking that they were just going to catch their train would rush into the station and push their way through the crowd only to find the tracks empty. The delay came during the rush hours.

MR. KIERNAN COMING.

Do not forget to attend the Kiernan recitals to be given at the Hunnewell Club next week and the week following. George Kiernan in essaying the characters to barely mention which is to instantly recall the inimitable Jefferson of memory, is so uncommonly faithful throughout that many marvel and all thoroughly enjoy. It is a comparatively easy task for the professional actor to do a bit or a scene from some great actor's work, but to give, as Mr. Kiernan does, a complete, sequential impersonation of a celebrated characterization, carrying the whole play along with it, is quite another thing. "Rip Van Winkle" will be presented Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 23, and "The Music Master" Wednesday evening, Nov. 30, and Mr. Kiernan's fine art is worthy of the patronage of a cultured public.

NEWTON CLUB.

A quartet from the Boston Philharmonic Orchestra Club gave a delightful concert Thursday evening which was enjoyed by a large number of the members and their guests. The bowling tournament which started this week gives promise of being one of the best ever held in point of entries and closeness of the teams.

Usually, a man that doesn't care how he looks doesn't care what he does.

When there is a tinge of frost in the air and a chill to the breeze you enjoy a quiet evening indoors.

We can give you many suggestions toward making your home attractive, not only with wall papers and finish, but with numberless small and inexpensive things, such as table coverings, cushions, dainty curtains, and so on. Our willow and Morris chairs will add to your comfort.

GEORGE D. RAND.

Mr. George D. Rand, who died on Nov. 2 at his home in Auburndale, was formerly well known among Boston architects. He was a son of Philander and Francis (Dutton) Rand and was born in Coventry, Vt., May 24, 1833. His early education was obtained in the schools of Brownington and St. Johnsbury. Subsequently he was editor of the St. Johnsbury Caledonian. Mr. Rand married Miss Martha J. Crossman in 1856. He became interested in the study of architecture and in 1861 began the practice of his profession in Hartford, Conn. Realizing that a wider field was open to him, Mr. Rand moved to Boston and there opened an office in 1869. Later he formed a partnership with Mr. Ober. That partnership was dissolved in 1883, and Mr. Rand became associated in business with Mr. Bertrand C. Taylor under the firm name of Rand & Taylor. In 1883, Mr. Rand, having invested in orange groves in Winter Park, Florida, established a home there and sold his interest in his business to Mr. Taylor. While living in Winter Park Mr. Rand was a trustee of Rollins College, and held other responsible positions. In 1897 Mr. Rand returned to Boston and resumed his professional work, eventually entering into partnership with Mr. Skinner. In 1899 Mrs. Rand died, and as Mr. Rand's health did not permit active life, he retired from business. In 1901 he married Mrs. William Webb and moved to a charming home in Auburndale, where he passed the remainder of his life. Mr. Rand was a man of most refined literary tastes, a man whom to know was to love. He dearly loved the companionship of fellow-men and always entered into their joys and sorrows with ready sympathy.

His work as an architect covered a wide field. He made a marked success in country house design, and large business buildings, schoolhouses, churches, etc., stand as monuments to his memory. During his business connection with Mr. Taylor Mr. Rand designed several large hospitals and laid the foundation for the broad work in that field achieved by his successor.

During the last few years of his life Mr. Rand entertained himself with water color painting. With his books and his brush he passed the time until the end came.

Many old friends gathered at the residence on Grove street, Auburndale, on Saturday, Nov. 6, when prayers were offered by Rev. Samuel Dike. Later in the afternoon services were held in the chapel of the Congregational Church, Rev. John Matteson, Rev. W. C. Gordon, Rev. Samuel Dike and Rev. Mr. Dutton officiating. Several musical selections were rendered by Mrs. Ruggles.

The remains were taken to Mt. Auburn for cremation.

THEATRES

Castle Square Theatre—"The Lion and the Mouse," which is to be given for the first time at the Castle Square on Monday. I can guarantee and intensely interesting drama of American life today. As written by Charles Klein, who is also the author of "The Music Master" and several other successful plays, "The Lion and the Mouse" has had a great career. It has been played both in this country and in England, and it aroused no little sensation in London for its stirring portrayal of American life. The role of Ryder, the great financier, will be played at the Castle Square by John Craig. Mary Young will appear as the heroine, Donald Steele will have a characteristic humorous role, and George Hassell, Marie Curtis, Mabel Colcord, Walter Fuller and all the other Castle Square players will be well cast. There will be special scenery that will give an added effect to the drama.

Tremont Theatre—"The Fortune Hunter" continues to be the one big success of the Boston theatrical season and it is now well on towards its one hundredth performance at the Tremont Theatre. While the length of its run is still an indefinite question the fact that this comedy will not play in any other city in New England has attracted to it a generous proportion of its audiences from near-by cities. According to the plans announced by Cohan and Harris, the producers, the entire year is to be divided between Boston and Philadelphia. Contrary to the usual custom there will be no "second" company playing "The Fortune Hunter" and John Barrymore and the original New York cast will continue to play the parts in which they have earned such great favor with the theatregoing public. John Barrymore has the title role and in the principal parts there are more than a dozen actors of note who are familiar to New England theatre patrons.

B. F. Keith's Theatre—It was expected that such a mammoth production as that of Gus Edwards would hold over for a second week at B. F. Keith's Theatre, where it has proved to be one of the strongest attractions seen at that house in many years. The supporting bill will be even stronger than that of last week. There have been many companies of trained seals in recent years, but none that have been able to perform the wonderful feats of Trent's Seals, that are announced as one of the leading features of the bill. Carson and Willard, the German comedians, also return with something entirely new and a newcomer will be Harry L. Webb, who is one of the greatest favorites

the West has ever had in blackface minstrelsy. Another "scream" will be Grant Simpson and Lulu McConnell in a comedy sketch called "A Stormy Hour," which is a succession of laughs from start to finish. Verona Verdi and her talented brother will also appear, and another important feature will be Le Dent, the King's Jester from the Folies Bergere in Paris with his remarkable feats of juggling.

Boston Theatre—For the first time in some years the playgoers of Boston and the patrons of the Boston Theatre will have an opportunity to see Kyrie Bellow in the most attractive of his stage parts, "Raffles," the greatest play about a thief that has ever been written and one of the most ingenious, surprise-full and dramatic plays of any kind produced within the last ten years. Mr. Bellow comes to the Boston Theatre as Raffles for one week only beginning Nov. 21. Raffles, as that character can be played only by Kyrie Bellow. It comes direct to Boston from its season at the Garrick Theatre, New York, where the play exerted its singular charm over tremendous, awestricken audiences night after night. The cast for the piece will include Gladys Hanson, Follott Pazel, Jane May, Frank Connor, Frank Westerton, Ernest Stallard and others. During the week's engagement in Boston there will be matinees on Wednesday, Thursday (Thanksgiving Day) and Saturday.

Park Theatre—It took "Seven Days" just about seven-sevenths of a second to catch on at the Park Theatre in Boston, and from that time it has been packing the playhouse with audiences that laugh and scream and roar over what most persons agree is the funniest and best comedy ever seen in that city. It has sent all Boston into merry hysteria and fully justified the reputation it won in New York where it ran into a second year. It is really astonishing that the authors could have packed so much fun into the play. There is enough to make a dozen truly excellent comedies and have some left over. See "Seven Days" at the Park Theatre and store up enough merriment to insure against any gloom the future may bring forth.

Extensions and Additions, Subway, Elevated and Surface, Which It Has Provided

(Concluded)

The Boston Elevated Railway Company is showing by a series of maps published in the Boston daily papers the additions and extensions which it has made to its system. On Sept. 28 was shown the surface lines and the Tremont Street Subway as in Jan. 1898. This was when the Boston Elevated took charge—on Oct. 3, the original elevated system; on Oct. 5th, the East Boston Tunnel; on Oct. 10, the Washington St. Tunnel; on Oct. 15, the Forest Hills Elevated extension; on Oct. 17, the East Cambridge Elevated Extension; on Oct. 19, the East Cambridge Subway and Beacon Hill Tunnel; on Oct. 24, the Riverbank Subway; on Oct. 26, the Malden Elevated Extension; on October 31, the Addition to Surface Lines; on November 2, all Surface and Rapid Transit Lines

If the gigantic project of the PANAMA CANAL, with a nation's credit back of it, is completed as contemplated, it will cost ONLY THREE TIMES as much as Boston's street railway system by 1914.

NOT A DOLLAR of this money comes from the nickels paid by passengers. It represents strictly ADDITIONAL INVESTMENT in transportation facilities.

There is NOT A DOLLAR OF WATER in the capital stocks of the companies.

On the contrary, the STOCKHOLDERS have PAID PREMIUMS of nearly $5,225,000.00 for the stock they have purchased.

And this amount has all been invested in actual property.

This premium is all in excess of the par value of the stock, and NO DIVIDENDS ARE DECLARED UPON IT.

It is a BONUS required from the stockholders by our MASSACHUSETTS ANTI-STOCK WATERING LAWS.

During the period indicated by the preceding advertisements, there have already been provided: 50 ADDITIONAL TRANSFER POINTS; together with 161,000,000 ADDITIONAL FREE TRANSFERS annually.

The building of extensions is proceeding in a consistent, coherent, comprehensive manner, with a trunk line eleven miles long, from Forest Hills to Malden, through the greatest density of population, and with radiating rapid transit lines built, authorized or feasible to every important suburb.

IN CONCLUSION:—

By means of these advertisements the Company has indicated the progress made and has certainly shown that it is keenly alive to the situation.

Prudence only has been the limit in its exertion for improvement.

When the work at present before us is completed new and equally important problems will no doubt be considered, and

We believe the facts presented will enable the public to still better work with us in a spirit of co-operation, especially so where future extensions of rapid transit lines are considered.

Again, however, we take occasion to repeat that the transportation facilities are progressing eight times as fast as the population and five times as fast as the wealth of the district served, and that more than ever optimism must be accompanied with extreme caution in weighing each and every future extension.

GREATER BOSTON COMMITTEE APPOINTED.

A committee to work out a plan of federation for the cities and towns in the metropolitan district and to bring about a wider realization of the fact that industrially and commercially these cities and towns are a unit, has been appointed by the Chamber of Commerce. This is the first definite, public step toward obtaining for Boston the "commercial rating" which it deserves as a centre of 1,500,000 population and of the most highly developed industrial region in the country.

The committee is made up, with two exceptions, of prominent residents of various suburbs, and will therefore be able to deal with the question of federation from all points of view. The Newton members are William M. Flanders of Newton Centre and Hon. George Hutchinson of West Newton. The duties of the committee are specifically given by the Chamber as follows: "To promote discussion of the fact that the cities and towns in metropolitan Boston are commercially and industrially a unit, to bring about a wider realization of the benefit which it would be to Boston if this fact were universally recognized, and to report what method of federation between the cities and towns in the Boston district is necessary and advisable, in order to accomplish the above objects." In appointing this committee the Chamber of Commerce takes no position on the question of annexation.

BELL'S SEASONING

Has delicately flavored the Dressings of Turkey, Chicken, Game Meats & Fish served in New England during the past 40 Years. It's the only original. Refuse substitutes.

MEAT OR TURKEY DRESSING (equally good when baked and served separately). Toast 7 or 8 slices of white bread. Place in a deep dish, adding butter size of an egg. Cover with hot water to melt butter and make bread right consistency. Add an even tablespoon of Bell's Seasoning, an even teaspoon salt, and 4 slices of salt pork, fried to a crisp and chopped fine. When well mixed, stir in 1 or 2 raw eggs. Bake in oven at 350° F. for 1 hour. The above dressings may be improved, to some taste, by adding chopped nuts of any kind, chestnuts, peanuts, walnuts, etc. Oysters also give a fine flavor. Remember, a 10c. can of Bell's Seasoning is sufficient to flavor the dressing for 100 lbs. of meat or poultry, and the 25c. can 300 lbs. For Delicious Sausages, Flavor with Bell's Sausage Seasoning. 25c. and 50c. Cans; 8, 12 and 25 lb. Boxes; 50, 75 and 100 lb. Drums.

for 1911 will call for a 30 cent increase in the tax rate on the present

an interesting collection of opinions of Boston on the proposition to form a Metropolitan Council for the govern-

MR. POWERS HONORED.

To mark the complete restoration to health of Mr. Samuel Leland Powers, after a distressing illness in London last summer, was the occasion of a complimentary luncheon tendered to him at the Parker House Monday afternoon. Samuel J. Elder presided.
Gov. Long represented the Commonwealth in his usual felicitous way, saying that he, too, hoped he would be as good a man as Mr. Powers when he got to be as old. John Hays Hammond represented his fellow-colleagues, Mr. William H. Taft, who sent a message of regret over his inability to be present to do honor to a man whose "red blood" the President said he particularly admired. Melvin O.
Adams spoke for Dartmouth College.
He had not only known Mr. Powers there, but Mr. Elder when a student at Yale, and they had had some intercollegiate relations in reference to pleasure fishing in Rhode Island, which seemed to the speaker prophetic of Mr. Elder's subsequent work as American counsel at The Hague in behalf of our fishing interests of Newfoundland.
Ex-Gov. Guild was especially felicitous, quoting some excellent lines on friendship. Mr. T. E. Byrnes of the New Haven railroad did the same thing, and was charged by Gov. Long with having written the verses himself. Gen. Charles H. Taylor of the Boston Globe told some capital stories.
One related to his seeking, when a clerk at the State House, some instructions from George G. Crocker as to the pronunciation of a few Latin words, on which the Charlestown high school had left the General somewhat in doubt. Crocker gave him the English pronunciation. The presiding officer, a fresh college graduate, gave the vowels their Roman sound, with the result that during all the readings
the two pronunciations were stacked up side by side, to the amusement of the lawmakers. Mr. Powers, the hero of the occasion, spoke with his usual felicity. He believed a luncheon
a very pleasant way to express cordial feeling, since people would have to stop in their business day to take a bite anyhow, and he said he had no doubt they regarded his return as the one least significant thing upon which they could hinge such a festivity. A message of salutation was read from
A. Shuman, president of the famous Atlantic Conference, of which many of those who had gathered were members.

One Republican and one Democratic

Frisbie and Mr. Grosvenor Calkins both desire the Republican nomination for alderman at large from Ward

WOODLAND GOLF OFFICERS.

Voluntary subscriptions amounting to several hundred dollars were made by the members of the Woodland Golf Club, at the annual meeting last Tuesday evening, toward rebuilding that section of the clubhouse which was burned a month or so ago at Auburndale. Plans for the reconstruction include more ample locker space.
There will be more than three hundred lockers when the new room is completed. An important amendment to the constitution was made, providing for an associate family membership.

There were more than fifty members at the dinner, which was held in Young's Hotel, and besides the election of officers and amendments to the constitution, there was a general discussion of the club's policy with respect to the betterment of the golf course, laying out of traps and upkeep of the greens. J. G. Anderson urged that when alterations in the course are contemplated in future all the members of the green committee get together and discuss matters thoroughly before going ahead.

These officers were elected: President, A. C. Burnett; vice-president,
H. R. Whitman; treasurer, L. B.
Folsom; secretary, H. S. Tripp. The board of directors to serve for three years is A. C. Burnett, L. B. Folsom, B. L. Longley and L. E. Chester. The nominating committee for next year includes B. S. Turpin, J. A. Wilson and J. W. Frederick.

UNITARIAN CLUB.

The monthly meeting of the Unitarian Club was held last evening in the parlors of Channing church. There was a good attendance and the informal reception was followed by dinner served in the banquet hall. At 8 o'clock in the parlors Mr. William G.
Ward of Boston gave a very interesting and instructive address on "The Future of England."

SUDDEN DEATH.

Mrs. Anna M., the wife of Mr.
Frederick Cole of Newton Highlands, died suddenly at her home on Floral street on Saturday morning.
Death was caused by pulmonary embolism. Mrs. Cole was 49 years of age and was a native of Switzerland.
She is survived by a husband, two sons, Frederick A. and William Cole, and one daughter, Mrs. Arthur Bremer.

Funeral services were held from her late home on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs.
Cole had been greatly interested in the work of the Congregational Church in that section of the city and the services were in charge of the pastor, Rev. George T. Smart. He was assisted by Rev. George Phillips, retired, a former pastor, and Rev. Arthur D.
Stroud, pastor of the Newton Highlands Methodist Church. A quartet sang. Burial was in Newton Cemetery.
There was a large attendance.

DREDGE CHARLES RIVER.

Mayor Hatfield and other city officials were given a hearing by the Metropolitan Park Commission on Monday and urged an appropriation of $25,000 for dredging the Charles River between Waltham and the Upper Falls. The commission were ordered to report on this question by the last Legislature and Waltham and Weston join with Newton in asking for the improvement.

The custom of selecting holiday gifts early in the season is one that has steadily grown in public favor for several years past, and dealers have readily adapted themselves to it by getting their stores and goods in readiness earlier than was formerly the custom. An instance of this is found in Lauriat's book store, where holiday buying has already commenced in earnest and the store has begun to have a holiday appearance. This is especially true of their children's department, which is unusually attractive this year.

Sterling Silver, $1 to $100.

day on Cabot park between the Allen

but three minutes of the last quarter were not played.

an church. Papers on the local chari-

DOUBLE FUNERAL.

Funeral services for Mr. and Mrs. Henri Batey, who died at the Newton Hospital as result of injuries received Thursday night, were held Sunday at the Methodist Church at Newton Upper Falls. The Rev. Walter Healey officiated.

The services were attended by hundreds of friends and neighbors. Many of them brought armfuls of flowers, which were banked around the caskets. The seven children of the couple were escorted into the church by friends. Miss Hattie Sturtevant played the organ and solos were rendered by Miss Grace Cummings.

While the Rev. Mr. Healey was speaking of the industry with which Mr. and Mrs. Batey labored to procure a livelihood for their family, many women burst into tears. The body bearers were Adam Law, John Pindley, John Stanley, James Simpson, John Leighthead, William Simpson and Walter Lamb. Interment was at Gaxtonville.

A Courtier in Blue Flannel.

A fine yacht lay at anchor awaiting a favorable breeze for her mission of pleasure. The crew idled about the deck, and a happy group of guests was not conversing pleasantly. In the group was a handsome mother. Her romping boy of five years broke from her hand, clambered to the rail, rolled over it and was whirled down the tide. The mother's shrieks roused a dozing, lounging sailor, who at once comprehended the situation and plunged after the child. Others promptly manned a boat and soon overhauled the sailor, who was now swimming with the little fellow in his grasp. As soon as they returned to the yacht's deck the mother, with streaming eyes, threw her arms around the neck of the dripping rescuer and fervently exclaimed: "Oh, oh, sir, how, how can I ever repay you? Name your own reward for giving back my son and saving me from a broken heart!"

Then she pressed a half score of kisses on the tar's weather bronzed cheeks. "Lady," answered he as she released him, "let the youngster go overboard again!"

The Test of a Wedding Ceremony.

A certain young pastor was planning with a young couple the steps in a marriage ceremony when the bride suddenly remarked, "Don't you make me promise to obey him."

"You ought to have some head to your family," replied the minister. Then, turning to the groom, he asked, "Will you promise to obey her?"

"Not much, I won't!" "What then? Do you expect me to tie you two together and leave you to fight it out afterward?" "Isn't that the way they generally do?"

After a moment's thought the clergyman answered: "I will tell you what I will do. I will use the same ceremony that was used at my wedding. Neither party promises to obey the other in that, and it has worked well in our case."

"I don't know," said the young man, doubtfully gazing at the top of the minister's head, already becoming bald. "If it is going to work on my head as it has on yours I don't believe that I want to try it."

The First Great Bank.

The first great bank in the world was the bank of Venice, established in 1157 when the queen city of the Adriatic was the head of the commerce of the western world. At that time the great current of the trade between Europe and Asia passed through the Persian gulf and the Red sea to Alexandria, Egypt, and was carried in ships across the Mediterranean sea and through the Adriatic to Venice, where it was distributed to various parts of Europe. Venice was a sort of autocratic republic, founded and supported by its merchants, who were famed throughout the world for their wealth and reliability. They founded their bank, which was guaranteed by the government and was held in high credit in all the great cities on the routes of trade. The word "bank" was derived from the Italian word "banco," a bench or counter over which the business was transacted.—Argonaut.

A Giant Among Dwarfs.

The intellect and genius of Franklin were perhaps never more manifest than when, as the colonial agent of Pennsylvania, he appeared before the British house of commons in order to undergo an inquisition into the taxation questions which were brewing the trouble which subsequently resulted in American freedom. Not fewer than 300 questions were propounded to him by some of the acutest legal and political minds of the old country. To each and every one of them he replied in a masterful manner. Edmund Burke in commenting on the matter said that Franklin reminded him of "a man being examined by a parcel of schoolboys," while Charles James Fox remarked that his inquisitors were "dwarfs in the hand of a giant."

The Unknown World.

Notwithstanding the rapid advance of exploration in various parts of the globe it is estimated that about 20,000,000 square miles of the earth's surface remain yet unexplored. The largest unexplored area is in Africa, 6,500,000 miles, but even North America contains 1,500,000 square miles of virgin territory. Most persons will be surprised to learn that there is three times as much land awaiting the foot of the pioneer in North America as in South America.—Chicago Tribune.

One Glimpse of Joy.

Johnny had two presents at the same time—one a diary, which is kept very carefully, and the other a pen shooting popgun, which he fires indiscriminately on all occasions. One day his mother found the following terse record in his diary: "Muddy cold and sloppy. Tooosdy cold and sloppy. Wensdy cold and sloppy shot granma."—Youth's Companion.

In Legal Terms.

She (after a lift)—You will admit you were wrong? He (a young lawyer)—No, but I'll admit that an unintentional error might have unknowingly crept into my assertion.

Not the Only One.

"Sir, I heard you using the word 'jackass.' Did you apply it to me?" "No, sir. Do you think you're the only jackass in the world?"—Cleveland Leader.

Resolve to wait in weakness and to walk in power.—Charlotte Stetson.

Miss Grace M. Burt, Editor.

A study of the Federation Manual reveals many interesting facts, and among them may be mentioned something of the age of the clubs belonging to it. It may not be generally known that the oldest club dates back to 1848, The Ladies' Physiological Institute. The Ladies' Library Association of Randolph followed in 1855 and the New England Women's Club in 1868. A year later comes the Wednesday Morning Club of Boston of which Mrs. Francis B. Stanley of Newton is the president, making four clubs previous to 1870. Six new ones were formed in the decade between 1870 and 1880, Cosmopolitan of Springfield, Home Club of East Boston, Papyrus of Haverhill, Monday Club of North Adams, the Lynn Women's Club, and Old and New of Malden.

But with 1880 it may be said that the club movement began to take general shape and in five years eleven were organized while in the succeeding five years sixteen more came into being. To this period from 1880 to 1890 belong seven of the Newton Clubs, named in order of organization so far as can be determined they are, West Newton Women's Educational, the C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands, Newtonville Woman's Guild, Social Science, Monday Club of Newton Highlands, Newton Centre Woman's Club, and the Ladies' Home Circle.

Further investigation reveals the fact that during the period from 1890 to 1900 clubs were everywhere springing up and by far the largest number belonging to the Federation were organized in this time. A hasty count makes the number more than one hundred and thirty, while there are sixty-eight, hardly more than half that number, in the last ten years. These figures are of more than a passing interest. They would hardly seem to indicate that there is any decline in club interest, but rather that clubs already existing are being strengthened and broadened so that they are doing the work for which previously various separate ones were started. The greatest efficiency with the fewest number of organizations is certainly the best policy.

Next Monday morning at eleven o'clock Mr. Edward H. Cutler will give the first of his course of lectures at the home of Mrs. Wolcott Perkins, 72 Bellevue street, on "The Scientific and Religious Culture of the Greeks."

The C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands will meet on Monday afternoon, Nov. 21, at 2.30 with Miss Marion Morse of Allerton road. Attention is called to the change of place.

On Tuesday morning, Nov. 22, the first of a course of lectures under the auspices of the Newtonville Woman's Guild will be given by Mr. L. E. Rowe, Decent of the Boston Art Museum, subject, "Egyptian Art." This lecture is free to Guild members.

The usual meeting of the Social Science Club will be omitted on Wednesday morning.

Plans are now perfected for the social meeting of the Newton Federation. It will be held on Dec. 1st at 2.30 in the parlors of the Congregational church at Newtonville. In addition to the reception there will be a program of monologues and vocal music and tea will be served. Further particulars next week.

The Pierian Club of Upper Falls observed "Greece Day" on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. E. Locke. Many guests from other clubs were present and all enjoyed the cordial hospitality of the club as well as the fine lecture by Mrs. F. B. Hornbroke on "Florence Nightingale." The program was enriched by piano selections.

On Friday last the West Newton Women's Educational Club held its first meeting of the season. Mrs. Thomas M. Elwell, the new president, was welcomed by a large audience. Mrs. Kathleen M. Phipps spoke on the life of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, which was followed by the singing of the "Battle Hymn" by Mrs. M. E. Beardsley. Minna E. Tenney of Boston then gave an illustrated lecture on "Home Life and the Passion Play of 1910," which was greatly enjoyed.

At the meeting of the Newton Highlands Monday Club on Nov. 14 two acts of Shakespeare's "Tempest" were read by members of the club. Piano selections by Mrs. Martel, the hostess, added to the pleasure of the afternoon. Next week the club meets with Mrs. C. S. Luitwieler of Duncklee street.

The C. L. S. C. enjoyed a paper upon "The History of Education" by Mrs. J. F. C. Hyde at its meeting on Nov. 14.

Mrs. Lucy Ingram Topliff lectured before the Abundant Review Club at the Congregational Chapel on Tuesday morning. Mrs. Topliff spoke appreciatively of three of Barrie's plays, "Peter Pan," "What Every Woman Knows" and "Admirable Crichton." She also spoke on Bernard Shaw's philosophy and his "Man and Superman."

The Newtonville Woman's Guild had a home meeting on Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. F. E. Spaulding talked upon "Playgrounds" including some account of the Playground Association and its meetings. The need of them in the Newtons, especially near the schoolhouses was emphasized. Mrs. L. S. Drake of the Social Science Club spoke on "School Gardens," telling of what was done by the committee in her club during the past summer. Vocal selections were rendered by Mrs. Arthur P. Jones. Tea was served by the charitable committee. At this meeting there was also the annual exhibition of the Needlework Guild. This year the number of garments was unusually large amounting to 1026, which will be distributed among the needy of the city.

The Current Events class of the Guild will be held on the second and fourth Tuesdays at eleven o'clock beginning on December 13.

The next conference of State Federation Departments will be held under the department of Art at the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, on December first at 10 A. M. Arrangements have been made whereby the club women in attendance can secure luncheon at the close and visit the Museum under the direction of the Inocent during the afternoon. The full program and instructions for securing luncheon tickets will be given next week.

At the meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning the second paper in the course on "The Commonwealth" was given by Mrs. E. M. Moore on "The Natural Resources." Mrs. Moore touched upon the geological formation of the state and said that the mineral wealth was one of the least of its resources. There are rocks belonging to each of the geological divisions of time, but the most valuable are the granite which dates back to the earliest period. About a half million dollars worth of it is quarried every year. Of other valuable rock she mentioned the sandstone used for building purposes and the trap rock used for roads and roadbeds. Turning to the agricultural possibilities she spoke of the water supply as unsurpassed, that the soil contains distinct advantages over many others and is particularly favorable for the cultivation of corn. The largest products are from the dairy and poultry farms. She also called attention to the possibilities of apple growing and cranberry raising. In comparison with other states Mrs. Moore quoted figures that place Massachusetts in a favorable light, much more so than is usually supposed.

She set forth the forestry problems and urged re-forestation, since the primeval forest has practically disappeared. She pointed out the great destruction that takes place each year from forest fires, it being one acre in every sixty-two.

Other resources which she said are in danger of extermination, are the shell fish and lobsters. She advocated state control over these matters. Deep-sea fishing shows no decline and 200,000,000 pounds of fish are yearly landed at Gloucester and Boston.

In closing her paper Mrs. Moore urged the necessity of greater knowledge on the part of the people in all these matters.

The monthly meeting of the Newton Centre Woman's Club on Thursday was most delightful. Mrs. Belle Temple Priest gave a program of monologues which were varied and extremely entertaining.

Owing to the illness of Miss Elizabeth Northrup the course of lectures on Current Events will be given before the Newton Centre Woman's Club without alteration of dates, by Mrs. Lila Penneck of Somerville. Mrs. Penneck has just completed a four years' term as president of the Hesperian Club of Somerville and has met with marked success as a lecturer on Current Events before many clubs of Greater Boston.

A Shot That Made Trouble.
An odd incident happened in the then Danish West Indies in the last century that nearly caused serious international complications. An American marksman, paying a visit to Charlotte Amalie, amused the governor by an exhibition of his skill with the rifle. Sitting on the veranda of the government house, he said that he could cut with a bullet the signal halyards on the flagstaff of the fort and lower the Danish standard to the ground. As the lines were almost invisible in the distance the governor was willing to bet that he could not do it. The shot rang out, and the flag fell. Presently a horseman dashed up, informing the governor that some one had fired on the flag. There was great excitement. The governor, none too popular, it seems, with the military, ruined his political future by admitting that the affair was a joke in which he connived. Report being sent to Copenhagen, highly colored, of course, by the commandant, his excellency was summarily removed.

Cultivating Ginger.

Ginger is made a matter of scientific culture in Jamaica. It is propagated by cutting up small pieces of the root, and, if possible, rich, cool soil from recently cleared woods is selected for it. It is a great impoverisher of the soil and grows so luxuriantly that in a short time a little piece of root will spread so as to produce nearly a pound of new roots. The sets are planted in March or April and get to their full growth about September. The roots are dug usually in Jamaica in January or February. They are washed, exposed to the sun until thoroughly dried and packed in parcels of about a hundred pounds each. In order to dry them more rapidly they are first scalded in a little copper pot in order to destroy life, of which the roots are very tenacious. White ginger and black ginger are from the same roots, the difference arising from methods of curing. Roots for sugar preserving are dug while quite young, before the stems are more than five or six inches high.

A Luckless Word.

Superstition dies hard, at least in the north of England. On Tyneside it is reckoned highly unlucky to hear or mention the word "pig," and evil consequences can only be averted by touching cold iron. If that material is not at hand its name must be uttered aloud as the next best thing.
It is no uncommon thing to see a group of sailors or workmen suddenly scatter to lay hold of iron railings, lampposts, etc., when by chance "pig" has slipped into their conversation.
A stranger to the district was not long ago puzzled to see four little shoeblacks, squatted at a game of cards on their blacking box, suddenly scramble to their feet, run to some iron posts several yards away, touch them and then return and resume their game quite unconcerned. When he obtained an explanation his amusement equaled his astonishment. The origin of the superstition seems to be unknown.—London Scraps.

Uses Animals Make of Their Tails.
Horses, cows and other creatures use their tails as fly flappers. Cats, squirrels and many more twist them around their necks for comforters. The rat has raised the use of the tail to a fine art, for by its means it guides the blind and steals jelly, oil and cream out of jars and bottles. The macaco plays as merrily with its tail as a kitten does, and the narwhale while it sleeps uses its tail as a sort of blanket. The raccoon catches crabs with its tail. Every one knows how the monkey's journey through pathless forests by swinging from tree to tree, while the fishes steer their way through the water by their tail fins. The ant enters puts up its big bushy tail for an umbrella. The vanity of the peacock is fed by the beauty of its tail.—Dumb Animals.

A Chemist's Happy Thought.
The guests at a ball given at the Tulleries, Paris, were once distressed by something in the air which irritated everybody. The most famous chemist of the day was consulted as to the mysterious cause. His son-in-law, Dumas, had the happy thought that perhaps the irritating particles in the air came from the wax candles. He found on analysis that these candles had been bleached by chlorine. Immediately they were lighted a compound was added to the air that irritated throats and noses. This chance discovery led Dumas to study the whole effect of chlorine, with far-reaching results in chemistry.

Exact Information.

A census enumerator was questioning a woman of indubitable Celtic extraction and had come to the division of sexes.
"How many males have you in your family?" he asked.
"Three a day, sorr, an' I git 'um meeliff," she replied emphatically.

Forethought

"You are probably not aware, sir," said the angry father, "that last year my daughter spent $1,500 on her dress."
"Yes, I am," said the young man firmly. "I advised her to do it over a year ago, when we first became engaged."

CALKINS WINS CONTEST FRISBIE CARRIES 4 WARDS BUT SOUTH SIDE DEFEATS HIM

The primaries for the coming city election were held Tuesday in the seven wards of the city, from noon until 9 o'clock at night. 1177 votes were cast by Republicans and 135 by Democrats. The contest between Mr. Frank D. Frisbie and Mr. Grosvener Calkins for Republican nomination for alderman at large from Ward 1 was responsible for the size of the Republican vote. Mr. Calkins won by a majority of 229, his vote being 687 to 458 for Mr. Frisbie. The latter carried his own ward, as he did last year, and in addition carried Wards 2, 4 and 7, while Mr. Calkins received his nomination by a large vote cast for him in Wards 5 and 6.

There were two contests in the Democratic party one for ward committee in Ward 2 and an unexpected fight against Alderman Cox for ward alderman in Ward 3. The regular ticket for ward committee won in Ward 2, while in Ward 3, Daniel O'Connell, chairman of the city committee, was nominated as ward alderman over Mr. Cox, by the use of stickers.

The returns were late, as usual. Ward 4, the last reaching City Hall at midnight.

POP CONCERT.

Palatine Chapter, Order Eastern Star, held an enjoyable and successful Pop Concert last Friday evening at Temple Hall, Newtonville, and notwithstanding the conflict of other attractions fully 150 attended, a goodly sum being realized. The hall was decorated with palms and shrubs, while flowers adorned the larger tables. An orchestra rendered an attractive program for an hour or more while light refreshments were served at the tables. The floor was then cleared for dancing, which lasted until midnight. The affair was in charge of Mrs. Elita M. Whitney, worthy Matron, D. Frank Lord, Chairman, general committee, Mr. W. A. Clark, Program, Mrs. Dorothy A. Sprague, Music, Mr. Charles E. Fogg, dance, Mrs. E. M. Whitney, candy, Mr. F. W. McAleer, refreshments, Mr. H. Wilson Ross, decorations, and Mr. W. G. Wilkins, tickets.

Palatine Chapter has had a most successful season this fall. The first meeting brought out over 300 members and guests, to witness the inspection by the Grand Matron and Grand Patron and other Grand officers. The Grand Matron had the largest suite that evening in the history of the order.

The last meeting was in honor of Present Matrons and Patrons and representatives of 24 chapters were present and participated in the work of the order.

At the next meeting in December, officers will be elected for the ensuing year.

REAL ESTATE AUCTION.

Alvord Bros. will sell at public auction next Saturday, Nov. 26, at 2:30 p. m., for J. Weston Allen, executor, all the remaining real estate of the Louise Pierce Barnes estate, consisting of land on Walnut, Aberdeen, Centre and Boylston streets, Newton Highlands. This is an absolute sale of land which is admirably located either for business or residence, close to the railroad depot and two lines of electric.

Ward alderman, Ward 2: one for Thomas J. Lyons and one for Thomas J. McGrath for Democratic ward alderman, Ward 4.

NEW HOUSE BURNED

The beautiful new residence of Mr. Thomas F. Baxter on Bristol road and Commonwealth avenue, West Newton, was damaged by fire and smoke on Sunday afternoon to the extent of about $5000. The blaze started in the basement from some unknown cause and was discovered after it had made considerable headway by the butler, James R. Butler. He notified the fire department by telephone and then ran out on to Commonwealth avenue and asked help from passing automobiles. The other servants removed the three Baxter children from the house and with outside assistance salvaged some valuable paintings, a piano and rugs. The department arrived in quick order and soon had the fire under control. The greatest damage is in the library, where the fire came thru the floor, and by smoke through the house. The house was built this year and was one of the finest in the city.

BOY SCOUTS.

At a meeting of gentlemen interested in boys' work held at the Newton Y. M. C. A. rooms Tuesday evening, a local council of the Boy Scouts of America was organized. The gathering was the result of a preliminary meeting and representatives were present from the various churches, schools, public and private, and playground organizations. Rev. Harrie R. Chamberlin, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church, was chosen chairman of the council, Paul E. Everett, secretary, and J. W. Farley, treasurer. An executive committee will be chosen later.

The Boy Scout movement originated in this country under the direction of Mr. Ernest Thompson Seton is non-sectarian and aims to interest boys in out-of-door life. To teach them resourcefulness in the fields and woods, including physical and moral discipline. The officers of the local council invite the co-operation of everyone interested in boys in order that the lads of Newton may have this excellent organization close at hand.

BEATEN 6 TO 0.

Boston College High defeated Newton High on Claffen Field Saturday afternoon, 6 to 0. The home team was greatly outweighted, but four times the Newton line held the visitors for downs within the four-yard mark. The touchdown was made in the second period when Mullen, on a delayed pass, made five yards through centre and scored. In the first period Linnahan took the ball across, but as he crawled over, after being tackled, the points did not count. The game was somewhat rough and the visitors were penalized many times. N. Clark was the star of the Newton defence, while Murphy and Brady also played well. Linnahan and Mullen put up a slashing game for the winners.

ALDERMEN PASS BUDGET A MILLION AND A QUARTER NEEDED IN 1911

One of the most important meetings of the year was held Monday evening by the aldermen. The principal feature was the passage of the annual appropriation order for 1911 carrying a total amount of $1,249,570.98, which is about $5,500 less than the present budget. The board clearly violated the spirit of the city charter which provides that "all meetings shall be public" by taking a recess and every member attending a committee meeting held behind closed doors. The recess was over two hours in length and the only hint of what happened in the committee room was the objection made by Alderman Lyons when called upon to vote on the budget. The entire order was approved of the city hall and for "maintenance of Streets." He was recorded as voting "No" on the order and was the only man in opposition. The order as reported by the Finance Committee reduces the recommendations of the Mayor some $26,000, the principal items being a cut of $15,000 for street maintenance, $2000 in the miscellaneous expenses of the Mayor's office, $1000 in sewer maintenance, $300 in fire department, $600 in the care of City Hall, and a refusal to increase the salaries of clerks, stenographers and assistant librarians.

President Jones was in the chair and Aldermen Avery, Barker, Blake, Burr, Cox, Gray, Heard, Higgins, Lyons, Miller, Stone, Sullivan, Towle, Underwood, Williamson, Moore and Woods were also present.

No one appeared at hearings held on pole locations on Central street, and for attachments on Central street, Ballard street and Washington street and for rounding corner of Crescent and Faxon streets.

The board of health recommended sewer construction in Westwood street and Central terrace and a letter was read from Alderman Doherty appreciative of resolutions adopted by the board relative to his sickness.

Petitions were received from the Telephone Company for relocations on Aberdeen street, Watertown street and Cheswick road, from R. Scinellariello for a wagon license, and A. E. Howe for six class liquor license.

Licenses of G. W. Bush Company for a wagon, John Cahill for a wagon, F. Richardson, Jr., for bowling alleys and pool tables in Bray Block, and of Reuben F. Farnell, John T. Burns, M. C. Laffie and W. S. Edmunds as auctioneers were granted.

On recommendation of committees, the city clerk was authorized to contract for printing city documents of 1910, the estimate of receipts for 1911 was adopted. Highland avenue was ordered sprinkled in 1911, the rate of interest on unpaid taxes of 1911 was fixed, the Gas Company was granted a permit to locate a four horsepower gas engine on Washington street, with exhaust properly muffled, N. A. Ross was granted a wagon license, the Edison Company was granted pole location on Pembroke street, Oakland street, Clavelly road, a relocation on Suffolk road, attachments on Oak street, Waverley avenue, Greenough, Washington street, and permission to remove poles on Suffolk road, the Telephone Company was granted attachments on Jackson road, and a relocation of Madison avenue, and hearings were assigned on Dec. 5 for sewer construction in Westwood street, Whitlow road and off Webster street. Leave to withdraw was also voted on petition of the American Fireworks Mfg. Co. to manufacture fireworks on Melrose street.

The order granting money for city expenses to Dec. 31 was amended by striking out the item of $6000 for water construction and adopted. Orders authorizing labor in the water department for $3000 and rounding the corner of Crescent street at Faxon street were adopted.

A resolution offered by Alderman Blakemore calling upon the board of health to investigate and report conditions relative to ventilation of street cars was passed after the alderman had stated that he thought it time some attention was given persons who had to ride in the street cars.

The board adjourned at 11:10.

BASKET BALL SEASON.

The Newton Y. M. C. A. has arranged an unusually hard basket ball schedule for the coming season. The team has prospects of a good season, as there are three veterans of last year's quintet in the lineup, and in addition will have Robert Muir, the crack centre of the Cambridge Five of last year.

The schedule:

Nov. 30, Makarias at Newton.
Dec. 10, Quincy at Quincy.
Dec. 14, Northampton at Newton.
Dec. 21, Chelsea at Newton.

WANTS NEW TERMINAL.

Mayor Fitzgerald suggests a new terminal station for the Boston & Albany Railroad, to be located on the land now used as a train yard, bounded by Boylston and Exeter streets and Huntington avenue. He believes this proposition would be a great thing for Boston, not only in the way of development of the Back Bay but in relieving the congestion at the South Station.

The Mayor says the train yard is too valuable a piece of property, being assessed for $3.75 a square foot, for its present use. He believes that the railroad could locate its yard farther out of the city and still have the advantages of the present yard and perhaps more of them, as there is congestion even now at times. Besides, he believes that the property would double and treble in value in the next few years with the step he suggests.

Murder Revealed by a Dream.

Perhaps the most amazing crime mystery ever solved by a dream was that revealed by a murder trial a couple of generations ago. The dead body of Mr. Norway, an inoffensive Cornish gentleman, had been found by the roadside between Wadebridge and Bodmin brutally murdered. No trace of the murderer could be found, and the mystery of the crime seemed beyond all solution when Mr. Norway's brother, a naval officer, arrived in England and told the following story: On the very night of his brother's murder, when he was on his ship in the West Indies, he saw him in a dream walking along the Bodmin road, when from a dark recess in the hedge two ruffians sprang out, slew and robbed him and then made their way to a house in Wadebridge, which he saw vividly in his dream. To this house he conducted the police officers, and there he found the very two men whom in his vision he had seen commit the murder. They confessed and suffered the extreme penalty of the law.—London Answers.

There Was No Duel.

Colonel Crisp when in the Missouri legislature was one of the central figures in a scene which promised bloodshed, which ended in a hearty laugh and which was the cause of an astounding remark from Hon. John W. Farriss, the then speaker, said Champ Clark. Crisp and another member got into a debate which grew into a quarrel. They shook their fists at each other and roared like a pair of Numidian lions. Everybody expected and many hoped to see a regular old fashioned knockdown and dragout fight, which expectation and hope were frustrated and dashed to the ground by Speaker Farriss remarking: "If you gentlemen do not quit fussing and take your seats I will order the chaplain to take you into custody," which so amazed the bellicose legislators that they stood in a state of lingual paralysis, while the spectators laughed till they were red in the face. Humor saved the day.

How He Helped the Blind.

"Please help a blind man," said a fellow with green goggles as he held a tin cup toward the line of people issuing from the Union depot. "I always help the blind," said one of two young men who were passing, and he stopped and took out a five dollar bill. "Can you get a quarter out of this?" "I guess so," said the blind man, dishing out a handful of change and counting out $4.75. "Well, John," said the benevolent young man's companion as they walked on, "you're a bigger fool than I took you to be." "Am I?" said John. "Yes, you are. That fellow's no more blind than I am. How could he tell that was a five dollar bill?" "Blamed if I know," said John innocently, "but he must be mighty near sighted not to see that it was a counterfeit."—Chicago News.

A Dilemma.

Doctor (who is not feeling well, to himself)—What shall I do? I haven't any confidence in any of those other doctors, and, as for myself, my charges are too high.

A Cruel Retort.

Discontented Wife—Several of the men whom I refused when I married you are richer than you are now. The Husband—That's why.

Both Live and Learn.

"A man lives and learns," remarked the husband, with some bitterness. "Well, the school of experience doesn't bar ex-ceds," retorted his wife. —Milwaukee Journal.

Very Annoying.

"It is annoying to watch for a train that's late."
"Yes, and it is even more annoying to wait for a train that was discontinued the week before."—Washington Herald.

A Line on Bjerkyns.

Lawson—What sort of man is Bjerkyns, anyway?
Lawson—Well, his wife always goes with him when he buys a suit of clothes.—Somerville Journal.

The Consultation.

"My wife always consults me about every article of attire she buys—frocks, hats, shoes, gloves, everything."
"My wife does, too—that is, she asks me for the money."

Sartorial.

"Ever go to that tailor?"
"Yes. Most expensive man. I got two suits from him—a dress suit and a lawsuit."—Lippincott's.

THEATRES

B. F. Keith's Theatre—An unsolved mystery will be the feature at B. F. Keith's Theatre next week in On the Hinduo, the Hinduo mystic, who sits a man at a piano and both rise from the ground, float in the air, and revolve, while the man plays the piano. Of all the mysteries that have been presented on the stage in recent years, this is without question the greatest, and there is no doubt that On the Hinduo will be the talk of all Boston next week. On top of this strong feature there will be Fannie Ward, the famous English actress, who is making her first appearance in vaudeville in a comedy called "An Unlucky Star," which is said to be one of the most amusing and at the same time artistic short plays seen in recent years. Other features will be Williams and Schwartz, the song writers; the Camille Trio of clowns; Gus Edwards' "Kountry Kids"; Jolly Wild and company in a musical play; Tom Mahoney, the Irish story teller; the Musical Johnstones; and Harry Tsuda, the Japanese equilibrist.

Boston Theatre—Announcement is made by Mr. Joseph M. Gaites that his newest production will be seen at the Boston Theatre beginning Monday, Nov. 28, entitled "Katie Did." The book is founded on that most popular of farces, "My Friend From India." The transposing of the piece to music and the lyrics are the work of W. C. Duncan and Frank Smithson. The new production is in two acts and a strong cast has been gathered together by Mr. Gaites for the presentation. In addition there is a large chorus of well trained beauties. Many of the girls have never been on the stage before. Frank Smithson has done the staging of "Katie Did" and this in itself assures some brilliant novelties both in pictures and in dancing. The production is a most lavish one in every way and no effort has been spared to make "Katie Did" the fitting success which it is.

Hollis Street Theatre—The long delayed engagement of the popular comedian, Francis Wilson, in Boston, is about to be consummated, and Mr. Wilson will begin a limited engagement at the Hollis Street Theatre in his own successful comedy, "The Bachelor's Baby," next Monday night. "The Bachelor's Baby" is by all odds the most successful play Mr. Wilson has had during his long career and is a most diverting and entertaining comedy farce, full of bright lines and with clever epigram and amusing situations, tells in a clean, straightforward and wholesome manner, an appealing as well as a very funny story. From the time the comedian makes his first entrance, which is very early in the comedy, until the final curtain falls, there is almost incessant laughter, save that every now and again Mr. Wilson has struck a very human note in some pathetic little scene with the child, which only serves to bring out the comedy in stronger relief. Charles Frohman, who presents Francis Wilson, brings the comedian for this engagement with practically the same company which was with him during the long run of the play in New York. Mr. Wilson has written the play in three acts and the production is said to be very elaborate and artistic. But one matinee will be played each week, on Saturdays.

Castle Square Theatre—"The Lion and the Mouse" has been so successful that John Craig will give it for a second and final week at the Castle Square, beginning next Monday. Its strong emotional scenes presenting the struggle between a multi-millionaire and financier, reputed to be one of the wealthiest men in the world, and a clever young woman who fights for the honor of her father, are very effectively acted by the players at the Castle Square. The woman in the end triumphs over money and power, the entire four acts offering a striking succession of powerful scenes. In the two leading roles, Mr. Craig and Miss Young are exceptionally effective, and the entire stock company does good work. On Monday, Dec. 5, Mr. Craig will make his second Shakespearean production of the season. The play chosen is "Twelfth Night," one of the most delightful of Shakespeare's many delightful comedies. Mr. Craig will appear as Malvolio and Miss Young for the first time on any stage in the role of Viola.

We have seen and heard so much of late about the wonderful bargains in so-called de luxe editions of standard sets of books that one or two syndicates of book manufacturers have flooded the country with, that it is something of a relief to see a reputable house like the Charles E. Lauriat Company meeting such competition by getting together a selection of the best of the low-priced editions of the great standard authors, and offering them for just what they actually are, at prices that will stand comparison with those on any equally well made books offered anywhere. A special counter in their store shows a really remarkable array of such books and with Christmas coming so close the offering is certainly timely. They will form a special feature of their annual holiday catalogue to be issued next week. A copy of this will be mailed to any Graphic reader on application.

VETERANS HONORED.

Members of Camp 31, Sons of Veterans, entertained the members of Charles Ward Post 62, G. A. R., last Friday evening with an enjoyable program by the M. Millie Beardsley Concert Company, followed by ice cream and cake. The entertainment included orchestral selections, readings, violin and drum solos by Bessie Lewis Ring, reader, Ruth Wellington, violinist, Grace Dean, cornetist, Frances Mont, drummer, and Grace Leutz, pianist.

Edith Had Overheard.

One Philadelphia newspaper man has a little daughter with whom he sometimes finds it necessary to be a trifle severe. Particularly is this true when the hour for going to bed comes around each night.

Last night the clock struck 8, and the father watched his three-year-old play on in a conscious effort to appear unconcerned.

"Edith, do you know it is your bedtime?" he asked.

Edith dropped the playthings and walked over to her father with very sober mien.

"If this thing is to continue night after night I suppose I'll have to submit to it," she said.

The newspaper man waited until his offspring had climbed the stairs to be tucked away by her mother, and when the latter returned to the room where he was sitting he said:

"Let's have our little spats in private hereafter."

His wife agreed. — Philadelphia Times.

Arabian Coffee.

The Arabian coffee maker, having prepared his fire of charcoal and placed near it a huge pot containing water, takes a few handfuls of green coffee berries, carefully culls out all imperfect berries and foreign substances and then places the best of the berries in an iron ladle held over the fire. The berries are permitted to roast until they begin to smoke and are then, while still uncharred, placed in a small mortar and carefully brayed with a pestle closely fitting the cup of the mortar. The berries are not, however, reduced to a dust. While this process has been going on a small pot has been half filled with tepid water from the large pot and placed over the fire. When the water in the small pot has begun to boil the broken coffee berries are thrown in, and the boiling is permitted to go on for a short time, the decoction being stirred with a spoon when it shows signs of boiling over. The coffee is then served in small cups without cream or sugar.

African Snakes.

The African cobra is regarded somewhat reverently by the natives of that country, who once a year kill a cobra de capello and hang its skin to the branch of a tree, tail downward. They all the children born during the last year are brought out and made to touch the skin. This, the parents think puts them under the serpent's protection. The cobra de capello divides with the horned viper of Africa the questionable honor of being the "worm of the Nile," to whose venomous tooth Cleopatra's death was due. The Kafirs use the venom of this snake's cousin, the puff adder, to poison their arrows, and when they have any small quantity left they swallow it, basing a theory that it will protect them from the bad effects of future bites. The Snake tribe of the Punjab say that the bites of snakes do not hurt them, and if they find a dead serpent they dress it in clothes and give it a superb funeral.

Beards in England.

It was about 1855 that the beard movement took hold of the English people. The Crimean war had much to do with it. The soldiers were permitted to forego the use of the razor as the hair on the face protected them from the cold and attacks of neuralgia. About this period only one civilian of position in England had the hardihood to wear a mustache. This was George F. Muntz, member of parliament for Birmingham. The enlightened electors, however, did not take kindly to the bearded politician. An officer candidate on one occasion received an intimation from the leader of his party that his mustache might prejudice him in the eyes of the rural population. The candidate replied that he was "determined to face it out." — Westminster Gazette.

Circular Talk.

The judge's son had just finished his course in law and came home triumphantly with his sheepskin in a blue frame. The old judge turned to his son with some wholesome advice. "My son, when you have a case in court and your opponent has the law on his side, you must talk facts, and when he has the facts on his side you must talk law." The young man sat and pondered awhile and then asked: "Father, what must a fellow do when his opponent has both the law and the facts on his side?" The judge looked wise and replied: "Just talk around and around, my son." — Success Magazine.

Died in Place of a Younger Man.

A charge was made at a wall lined with French infantry. Sergeant McQuade of an English regiment saw two Frenchmen level their muskets or rests against a gap in a bank awaiting the appearance of an enemy. St. George Brown, then a lad of sixteen started to ascend at the fatal point "You are too young, sir, to be killed," said McQuade, pulling him back and stepping into his place. He fell dead pierced with both bullets.

Taking a Chance on Him.

"What was you askin' for the wilder's bonnet, mum?" "Well—er—I thought nupence." "E's very ill, mum. I think I'll risk it." — London Tatler.

Sarcastic.

Husband—After all, civilization has its drawbacks. People in the savage state seldom get ill. Wife (sweetly)—I wonder if that's the reason you're so healthy.

If a man could have half his wishes he would double his trouble.—Franklin.

LINCOLN TRUST COMPANY.

Company Little Over Year Old—Statement Shows Deposits to be More Than Millions.

Although it began business a short 13 months ago, the Lincoln Trust Company of Boston has already established itself as one of the progressive and successful banking institutions of this city.

In a statement just published, showing the condition of the company as of Nov. 17, 1910, the company has exceeded the one million dollar mark. Naturally this is a source of considerable satisfaction to the management and directorate of the bank, especially when attention is again called to the fact that this has been accomplished within a little over a year.

In the opinion of an outsider and one who is interested in the matter merely from the standpoint of pride in Boston's financial institutions, the contributing causes of the success of the Lincoln Trust Company are: the progressive methods of the management; the diversified interests represented on the board of directors; the location, which is practically in the heart of the woolen, leather and textile districts and near the South Station; and the fact that in making an appeal for business particular stress has been laid on these points. Also, the bank pays interest on checking accounts that carry reasonable balances. This has proved an attractive feature.

The bank has endeavored from the start to reach not only the large but the small depositor, and, after reaching him, holds him by the policy followed by the officers, of according to every depositor as much personal attention as he may require. That this method is appreciated is conclusively shown by the fact that the number of depositors has grown in the past 13 months to 700.

Mr. Edward P. Hatch of Newtonville is vice-president of the company.

SAMUEL LELAND POWERS.

By Wilder D. Quint.

Samuel Leland Powers—stars danced when he was born, else how account for that rare and bubbling humor with which the man has met every rough place in life—and he had to climb over many of them before he became the great advocate, skilled jurist, wise statesman, and large-hearted humanitarian he is today. It is no belittling of his dignity that his mighty army of friends wipe out the last three letters of his given name. His enemies—but he has none excepting those that every man of honor should have, and even they would rather be his friends if they could. In him the law loses its austerity but none of its force. Through his practice politics become clean, yet no less virile and expectant of victory. By his example every-day life has in it something to cheer and to ennoble those who are brought within its radius. No one has yet decided which is the larger, his intellect or his heart. He has accomplished much, but rides rough shod over the feelings of no man. "Suaviter in modo; fortiter in re"—that is Samuel Leland Powers.—Boston Republican.

THE SPIRITUAL WORLD.

On next Sunday evening and on the evenings of the two Sundays following a course of lectures on the subject of "The Spiritual World" will be given at the Church of the New Jerusalem, Highland Avenue, Newtonville. The speaker will be the Rev. John Goddard, the pastor of the church. It will be the object of the lectures to state clearly and simply what we may know definitely about the life after death, and the sources of our knowledge are, and why we should believe in such a life at all. The subject on the first evening will be "Where is the Spiritual World"; on the second, "What is the Spiritual World"; and on the third and last, "Why is the Spiritual World."

The lecture committee of the church offer a most cordial invitation to the public to attend these lectures, which will begin at 8 o'clock. The church is just off Walnut street, opposite the Newton Club.

The action of the aldermen in accepting the act authorizing the establishment of a municipal buildings insurance fund changes the long settled policy of the city and it is surprising that the matter did not create more discussion. William Allen White has written most interestingly on "The Old Order Changeth" and it is evident that the spirit of unrest has affected
this city. The fundamental civil service policy of protecting the tenure of office of city officials, is overwhelmingly changed by the voters and now it is proposed to ignore the judgment of many past city governments and establish a fire insurance fund.

I have persistently and consistently pointed out that the policy of the city in assessing the present day and generation for the past, present and future expenses of the water department, was unwarranted and unjust.
This insurance proposition is in exactly the same class. It is proposed to tax the present taxpayer for the sake of saving future taxpayers from possible loss, exactly as the present
water consumer is paying for future improvements to the water supply.
The conditions are analogous and both arise, in my opinion, from a misconception of the fundamental principles of municipal government. It is considered the height of efficiency, to run our city government like a business corporation, and in a measure, this is true, but only in a measure. A business corporation consists of stockholders who have a financial interest in its success. If a stockholder wishes to retire he sells his interest to some one else, who thereby continues the same financial interest of his predecessor. A municipal corporation, on the contrary, is composed of stockholders who have only an annual financial interest in its success. Each year there is a change of approximately ten per cent in the great body of our taxpayers. Those who retire have absolutely no financial interest in the financial policy of the succeeding city government.

In addition it should be noted that a city government is simply a cooperative form of action. It therefore follows that each annual body of taxpayers, as a matter of equity, ought to pay their own expenses, including a fair amount for the use of the plant which preceding taxpayers have prepared and which is included in the items of interest, serial bonds and sinking funds of a city debt created for permanent improvements. To charge the taxpayers of 1910 for the entire cost of laying water mains and extension of water supply to be used by future generations is unjust, and to assess them for an insurance fund for the benefit of the future is also unjust. It would be equitable to use the money proposed for such a sinking fund, to increase the efficiency of our fire department, thereby rendering better service to the taxpayers of today, and possibly by such increased efficiency, giving all our citizens a lower rate for individual fire insurance. From an item in the aldermanic docket, which was not presented for action, it is evident that some $25,000 being part of our accumulated overruns of past years, is to be utilized as the basis of the proposed sinking fund. If there is an available balance of $25,000 the present year, it would be far more satisfactory to the 1911 taxpayers, it seems to me, to utilize it to mitigate the very unusual and heavy burden which the loss of corporation taxes is to entail this year. 1911 with such a large loss of revenue, should not be called upon for any burdens imposed for the benefit of the future, and its taxpayers should be given every advantage possible. $25,000 would care for one half the corporation tax loss and its transposition into such a utopian scheme as an insurance fund would, at the present time, be almost a crime.

Members of the Massachusetts Legislature for 1911 are evidently in for a high old time with Governor Foss.
If his present intentions and proclamations are any criterion of what he will attempt in the future. The new governor will have his hands full in keeping his own official affairs up to the high standard set by Governor Draper, and any attempts to usurp the legislative functions will only hurt
his own executive administration.

I have not interviewed the senator or representatives of this district on their attitude towards the re-election of Senator Lodge, but if they are the calibre of men I take them for, they will heartily resent the proposed attempt of Governor-elect Foss to dictate their action on what is clearly a legislative duty. While Senator Lodge, by his manners and methods, has made many enemies thruout the state, there is but one opinion regarding the splendid results he has obtained for Massachusetts, and his defeat for re-election would seriously affect the prestige and welfare of the state so far as national issues concern us.

The recent defeat of Governor Draper for re-election on issues which were entirely extraneous to his administration, ought to bring the Republican party to a realization that some method should be devised to enable the voters to express a direct preference for national senators. If this is not done it is more than probable that good governors in the future will be made to suffer the misdirected anger of the voters as Governor Draper did the present fall.

The loss of $50,000 in the income from corporation taxes will be quite a factor in the tax rate of 1911 and the board of aldermen should be commended for their close scrutiny of the budget for the coming year. It is evident, however, that some of the reductions which have been made will have to be restored at some time next year, probably after the new tax rate is declared in the summer, so that the burden will be simply transferred to the levy and rate of 1912. This course cannot be approved under normal circumstances, but the tremendous loss in corporation taxes makes an unusual situation which requires unusual methods.

Don't enthuse too much on the prospects of immediate electrification of the railroad line to Boston. It is only on paper at present.

Don't spit in Boston—or anywhere else.

ADVERTISING PAYS

Tom Murray of Chicago is a philosophic merchant who advertises his application of homely philosophy to business with resulting fame and riches.

George W. Loft of 54 Barclay street and 29 Cortlandt street, New York, is an advertising philosopher who has applied his stock of common horse sense to every detail of his business with astonishing success. His fame as a merchant is extensive. As a witty judge of human nature it is limited to the trade, his employees and his friends. Tom Murray and George W. Loft are analogies as judged by advertising lights. They prove again what can be accomplished with a small capital when the right business methods are allied to advertising even in these days of sharp competition.

As an example of Mr. Loft's sagacity and wit the following story as told to a Printers' Ink reporter is worthy of notice:

"The average duration of a courtship between a man and a woman is, roughly speaking, one year. The average term of married life is 21 years. During the courtship period the young man, alive to the necessity of making a good impression on his fiancee, buys her Huyler's candy. After marriage this necessity is removed and the young husband is inclined to provide the sweets for his wife on a more economical basis, often saving one-half and one-third the price. That was my cue. I was willing to let Huyler have the year of courtship if in turn I got the 21 years that follow.
The amount of business done today in our two stores will show whether we've got them or not."

The acumen displayed in the above largely explains Loft & Co.'s success.
When their first store was opened they had little or no capital. Candy is a luxury and a staple. A retailer of candy is naturally in competition with every other candy store in the city, and there must be several thousands of them. Loft's not only does this, but it successfully competes with every candy store within a radius of 35 miles around New York. The wonderful success of the Loft stores is due to something more than a surface reason. It is interesting to hear Mr.
George W. Loft explain it himself:

"I reasoned that if dry goods stores could buy and sell candy and pay advertising bills the manufacturers ought to do still better.

"Our first advertising venture was a 28-line space in the New York Journal five years ago. This was soon increased to 56 lines. We kept it at more or less regularly, but it was six months before there were any noticeable results. On a number of occasions we became discouraged and threatened to give it up. Something induced us to hold on, though, and after seven or eight months the returns began to look promising, and we increased the space and frequency of our advertising in proportion to the increase in business. The total advertising expenditure during the first year was $500 in the year just passed we spent for the same purpose $20,000 and a better investment was never made. Ours was the first candy store in this city to advertise in the daily papers. Since then other have followed. The field was new.
I believe it's as new and full of promise today as ever.

"I believe advertising should be increased in proportion to the increase in business. The ratio, of course, becomes different. The more goods we sell the less our advertising costs in proportion. It is an investment in which the gains are compounded. Consequently it would be worse than folly to discontinue.

"Last Christmas eve the number of customers waited on in our two stores was 46,000. We had to turn away many without serving them. It was simply impossible to supply all who came. I knew beforehand that both our stores would be filled during the ante-Christmas week and Christmas eve without advertising, but it has been a matter of principle with us not to allow a break in our advertising. We just keep it up and try to be prepared for the demand by anticipating it. Besides, the Christmas advertising of Loft's candies was now to many people, mainly those who buy candy only at holiday times, and by attracting this class at Christmas we practically secured a new list of customers, for many persons who come in to buy for a particular occasion only, and with whom the buying of candy is a rarity, have become regular patrons after becoming familiar with the high quality of our goods and the reliability of our advertising.

"Never say anything in your advertising which you cannot prove or back up" has been a strict business principle with us from the beginning.
People will soon learn whether your advertising statements are reliable or not."—L. Scott Dabo in Printers' Ink.

NEWTON HIGH WINS.

Newton High School closed its season yesterday by defeating Cambridge Latin, 6 to 5, on Claffin Field, Newtonville. The eleven earlier in the season played a 0 to 0 game. Both touchdowns yesterday came in the first period.

The Cambridge backs allowed a long punt to roll across the line and Blue recovered it for Newton. Cady kicking the goal. The Cambridge touchdown was a gift from the referee, who allowed the visiting team, through a mistake, to have a fourth down on the Newton 11-yard line.

Grant then fumbled, the ball rolling over the line, where Stevens fell on it. In the third period the Newton team brought the big crowd of about 2800 to its feet by holding Cambridge Latin for downs on the one-yard line. Newton lost heavily on penalties.

CHURCH DEDICATED

Archbishop William H. O'Connell, with impressive services, formally dedicated the new church building of the parish of Mary Immaculate of Lourdes, more generally known as St. Mary's Church of Newton Upper Falls. The services took place yesterday morning and the building was filled to overflowing.

Mons. George J. Patterson, P.A., of South Boston was the celebrant of the mass. Rev. Fr. Thomas L. Flanagan of Medford deacon, Rev. Fr. Francis Glynn of Melrose sub-deacon, Rev. Fr. Edmund Daley of Jamaica Plain master of ceremonies, Rev. Fr. Dennis H. Donovan of Newton Upper Falls assistant master of ceremonies, and the sermon was preached by Rt. Rev. M. Lavelle of the archdiocese of New York.

Both Archbishop O'Connell and the preacher praised the energy of the pastor and the parish in obtaining such a notable addition to the churches in the diocese. The former said, in part: "It is rare that so much praise is really merited. This is a great work, done in such a short time by people of limited means." He also praised the beauty of the building.

Rev. Fr. Lavelle, in his remarks, said that the members of the congregation had shown their devotion and loyalty in the fact that in less than two years a parish of less than 1500 souls had raised $30,000 in contributions.

The organist was John F. Hession, and the regular church choir was augmented by a portion of the choir of St. Patrick's Church of Roxbury.

The ushers were J. Joseph Warren, J. J. Mahoney, Fred Cahill, J. P. Durbin, John E. Slattery, George T. O'Hearn, John E. Buckley, Charles H. Crowley, W. P. Meehan, Thomas Leach, William H. Kerrivan, James F. Ryan, William Warren and Charles Marden.

In the evening there was a vesper service, at which the preacher was Rev. Fr. Richard Neagle, P.R. of Malden.

The new building stands at the junction of Elliot and Oak streets, and was built at a cost of $150,000, including the cost of the site. The first sod was turned on the last Sunday in June, 1909, and the cornerstone was laid Oct. 3, 1909.

In the construction the idea of a building absolutely fireproof has been carried out. The church is built of brick, concrete and steel, its exterior is of water-struck brick, with trimmings of Indiana limestone. The style of architecture is Romanesque. One of the striking features is a clock tower, 135 feet high, with a roof of red tile. This tower, in addition to the clock, contains three bells, which will toll the angelus, as well as the hours.

The three doors at the front are carved in Renaissance style. Before them are four pillars, each 38 feet in height, and pendant from a central piece before the middle door is a large electrolier. A pedimental piece in a niche high in the facade is comprised of 12 figures of heroic size and represents the vision of the Madonna at Lourdes, representing the various classes coming to her for strength and restoration to health. This group is 25 feet long.

But it is inside that the church shows to best advantage, for the interior is magnificent. Paintings and statuary of the highest order are in evidence. There are seats for 800 in the auditorium, while the gallery will seat 250 more. In the basement is a chapel with seating capacity for 500. The supporting beams of the roof are bridgework steel and hardwood and from base to crest the auditorium is 58 feet high. The organ is placed in the balcony. There are 13 large windows on the main floor, the 14th being given over to a niche to the Blessed Virgin at Lourdes, as represented by a small group of statuary. The windows were manufactured by F. X. Zettler at Manlet, many of them from cartoons sent there by Rev. Fr. Danahy. Three of the windows are in memorial and the others are gifts, as are 16 smaller windows in the upper part of the building.

The ceiling is decorated with pictures representing the saints and Biblical topics, the work being done by G. Raggl. Many of the windows are copies of world-famous paintings, some by Raphael and others by Murillo. The Statine Madonna is one of the most striking.

The interior of the church is lighted by four wrought-iron chandeliers, bearing electric clusters and lamps on each of the pillars. The altar is the product of a Baltimore concern and is one of the most beautiful in the diocese. The rail is of Numidian marble, while white Italian marble is used in the altar itself. St. Joseph's altar is crowned by a painting of Christ and his mother and over the altar of the Sacred Heart is a painting of angels incensing.

The sanctuary is under a dome, the ceiling of which bears three paintings. These depict the annunciation, the ascension and the coronation. On the front of the altar the last supper is depicted in relief. Back of the altar is a painting of Christ prepared for burial.

The band on which the church stands is of sufficient size to provide an additional tract large enough for a rectory and a parochial school when the time comes to build them.

CHEER UP!

Smile, you son-of-a-gun, smile! Cheer up, and stop secreting bile! Don't look as if you're on your last mile! Turn your mouth- corners up for awhile! Forget the "grouches" you've placed on file! Don't be the bluest pill in the pile! Tickle yourself, if you have to, but smile! It's ketchin'—a smile, and it's always in style! Smile, you son-of-a-gun, SMILE!

Let your light so shine that others will have a chance also.

The Rich.

It is a great mistake to believe that the rich are holding us down. As a matter of fact, they are pulling us up. If there were no rich people to keep our eyes glued upon the great gulf between having and not having none of us would hustle. We have to have the rich man's mansions prodding us, his power scourging us and his automobile butting us to get anywhere at all. We have to see his wife and daughters in silks and jewels and realize that our own wives and daughters without these things think of us as providers to peel our coats off and get into the game. None of us can go out driving with such as we have and suffer the rich man to whiz past us in prism glass and burnished brass, throwing dust in our eyes and gasoline in our hair, without going better in the great art of human endeavor for the next two or three days anyway. Blessed are the rich, for they fill us with shame and new resolve and make us to wonder what in the Sun will we have been doing all these years.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Byron's "Bride of Abydos."

It was after Lord Byron arrived in Greece that he wrote that beautiful poem "The Bride of Abydos" and that exquisite song "The Maid of Athens," which, says a Paris contemporary, every Englishman of culture knows by heart. Documents enable us to establish the true identity of the heroine of this poem. She was one of the three daughters of Mr. Black, English vice consul at Athens, at whose house Byron for some time lived. After the departure of the poet Theresa Black married an archaeologist, M. Pittakis, whose widow she became several years later. Her beauty, her charm, her elegance, conquered every heart. The hero of the poem was an old woman of upright figure and still showing signs of her former beauty. With age had come poverty. The London Times, moved by her distress, opened at this epoch a subscription in her favor. She died in 1875.—London Globe.

The Gun Changers.

Among the more superstitiously inclined of the sporting Cingaleses are gun changers, who allege that a gun may be charmed in different ways and by different methods. An essential part of the process, however, appears to be the muttering of certain formulae.

A gun, the changers say, may be charmed in any one of the following four ways: (1) So that it will wound the animal fired at, but will not kill outright; (2) so that he who carries it shall find nothing worth shooting; (3) so that it will not kill anything flying, but will kill animals that run, and (4) so that it will not kill anything that runs, but will kill anything flying.

No gun can be charmed at all if the owner takes the precaution of rubbing some pork fat on the barrel or attaches a piece of the outer skin of the rat snake to the stock in such a way that it cannot be seen.

How a Coal Fire Protects Itself.

A curious way in which a fire in the heart of a coal pile keeps itself from being put out is noted in a mining journal. Such fires often start in the interior of large piles of coal owing to heat developed by slow oxidation, which is prevented by the size of the pile from escaping into the air. Such fires are difficult to put out owing to the fact that the burning mass turns the coal around it into coke, which is nearly impervious to water. The pile may thus be thoroughly drenched without putting out the fire, which it never really reaches. The only way to deal with the situation is to drive into the pile a sharpened iron pipe, long enough to reach the burning coal, and then to couple a hose to the upper end and turn on the water.

The Cocoa Plantation.

A traveler in South America, where the cocoa tree is largely cultivated, speaks of the great care with which the young plants have to be protected from the sun, which if very strong is fatal to them. To secure this protection the planters shield them by banana trees and plantain trees, the broad leaves of which give them the needed shade. And even when they are fully grown they need protection, which is given by trees known as "immortals," or, as the planters call them, "the mother of the cocoa." Thus the whole cocoa plantation has a sort of canopy.

A Starter.

A gentleman whose hearing is defective is the owner of a dog that is the terror of the neighborhood in which he lives.

The other day he was accosted by a friend, who said:

"Good morning, Mr. H. Your wife made a very pleasant call on us last evening."

"I'm very sorry," came the startling reply. "I'll see that it don't occur again. I'm going to chain her up in future."—London Telegraph.

Not Comforting.

"Did the minister say anything comforting?" asked the neighbor of the widow recently bereaved.

"Indeed, he didn't!" was the quick reply. "He said my husband was better off."—London Telegraph.

A Real One.

Both Expert in Logic.

"Tom," said a father to his son, whose school report showed him to have been an idle young scamp, "what have you been studying this term?"

"Logic, father," replied Tom. "I can prove you are not here now."

"Indeed! How so?"

"Well, you must be either at Rome or elsewhere."

"Certainly."

"You are not at Rome?"

"No."

"Then you must be elsewhere."

"Just so."

"And if you are elsewhere you clearly can't be here."

For answer the father took up a cane that lay near and laid it smartly across his son's back.

"Don't!" cried Tom. "You are hurting me."

"Not at all. You have just proved conclusively that I am not here, so I can't be hurting you."

Before his stern parent had quite done with him Tom felt that there must be, after all, a flaw somewhere in his logic.—London Tit-Bits.

The Creeping Kaffir.

The sun was shining brightly down on the farmyard, and under a large willow tree a number of roushlekjes—small, red beaked birds—were feeding. Suddenly a Kaffir appeared and fell on his knees about ten yards behind the birds. He crept a yard nearer, but if I had not been watching him very closely I could have sworn that he did not move. He moved entirely, not in sections of knees and legs and arms and upper body. Then he winked at me, so certain was he of the success of his exploit. I am certain some of the birds saw this alien figure, yet so imperceptible were his motions that they did not suspect he was a human being—and a foe. Nearer and nearer he drew. Suddenly he lay still, measured the distance with his eye, and then, with a lightning motion, he stretched forward and grabbed. The birds arose, alarmed, shrieking shrilly—all but one. And that one was fluttering, terrified and helpless, in the Kaffir's huge hand.—London Standard.

A Railroad Man's Dream.

Railroad men are strong on dreams. One morning an engineer came down to the train master's office and declared that he would not go out on his run that morning and asked for a layoff. His superior asked him what the trouble was, and when he said that he had had a dream in the night that troubled him he was laughed at and an effort was made to induce him to take his run out. But he refused and was urged to tell his dream.

"I dreamed last night that my brother was killed in a head-on collision near Topeka," he said, "and later I dreamed that old 608 blew up." As 608 was his engine, he resisted the laughter of his friends and would not take her out, and another man was sent for to take the job.

That afternoon the boiler of 608 exploded on the road, killing the substitute engineer and the fireman. A week later the engineer's brother was killed in a collision, as he had dreamed.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The Skin of My Teeth.

In the book of Job appears the sentence, "I am escaped with the skin of my teeth," which is modernized "by the skin of my teeth" and gives the idea of a narrow escape, one so close as to be just by the thickness of the skin on the teeth, which is so thin that no microscope has yet been able to find it. "To cast in the teeth" means to throw defiant reproaches or insults spitefully, as one would cast a stone at the exposed teeth of a snarling dog. "Tooth and nail" denotes the manner of an action full of frenzied fury, typified by biting and scratching, as when two belligerent cats make the fur fly.

Court Trains.

At the coronation of Queen Adelaide that lady's train tore itself away from the bodice, taking part of the latter with it. When Elizabeth of Austria entered Paris to marry Charles IX, her train was seventy feet long and greatly admired by the people. Elizabeth of Valois wore a train six yards long, which was carried after her by gentlemen as she danced. Mary, queen of Scots, is said to have worn a twelve yard train at balls, also carried by a gentleman.—Pall Mall Magazine.

A Heavyweight.

"And then," she said in telling of the romantic episode, "she sprung to his arm."

"She did?"

"Of course. Do you doubt it?"

"Oh, no," he replied, "but after seeing her I can't help thinking that it must have jarred him quite a bit."—Chicago Post.

Today.

If you made mistakes yesterday, forget them. No strength was ever built upon continued regret. Today is the result of yesterday, but it is more important to remember that tomorrow is the result of today.

NEW TELEPHONE RATES STILL IN EFFECT.

The following statement has been issued by the commercial department of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company:

"To correct a somewhat prevalent mistaken impression, it seems desirable to state that the new telephone rates are still in effect. The mistaken belief that they have been suspended or postponed probably arose from the request of certain petitioners representing four party and six party subscribers asking that such subscribers be given the privilege of retaining their service under the old rates until Nov. 1, 1911, in order to give them ample opportunity for understanding the new schedule.

"The company acceded to this request. The new schedule is in effect, however, for all classes of subscribers who desire service thereunder. "Of the 22,000 subscribers whose applications under the new schedule have been received thus far, more than 4500 had either the old four party or six party service. The great majority have elected some form of two party service and from them have come many expressions of satisfaction. Their reports of 'busy' lines or of party line interference have been reduced to a minimum while the divided ringing (which signals only the subscriber actually wanted) has given relief to those disturbed by a multiplicity of bell calls.

"As these four party and six party subscribers voluntarily applied for service, and at the time of making applications had the rates fully explained to them, there is no reason to believe any misapprehension exists as to their scope and effect. If any subscriber to either of these classes of service applied because of his belief that the change would shortly be made compulsory, the company will retransfer him if he makes application on or before Nov. 21, 1910.

"The new service will be continued to all who are satisfied with it, however, and will be offered not only to new subscribers, but to present subscribers who desire to change to the new schedule."

MEMORIAL TABLETS

WOMEN TO HONOR REVOLUTIONARY SOLDIERS

The attention of patriotic citizens, and especially by the descendants of our revolutionary forefathers, is called to the fact that the Sarah Hull Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, is planning to erect memorial tablets in this city to their honored memory. The chapter has already with great effort raised $1100 for this work and it is desired to raise about as much again.

It is proposed to have the name of every one of the four hundred and thirty-two of our revolutionary soldiers inscribed on bronze tablets. It will be noted that there are forty-five Jacksons in the list of those who went to the war, and that the familiar New-ton names of Fuller, Hyde, Ward, Wadsworth, Trowbridge, Adams, Clark, Kenrick and others are largely represented.

Few who have not made an especial study of it, realize how patriotic Newton was and what sacrifices it made during the War of Independence. It was just as patriotic as Concord and Lexington, but no battle was fought there, and the sacrifices have been comparatively unnoticed by historians.

The chapter confidently hopes that this memorial will be the means of recalling to all, and especially to the young, what a price our forefathers paid for our liberties. Contributions may be sent to Mrs. Francis B. Hornbrooke, chairman of the memorial work of the Sarah Hull Chapter, D. R., or to Mrs. C. O. Tucker, Treasurer. All contributions will be promptly acknowledged.

BARBER BUNGALOW BURNED.

The handsome bungalow of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Barber on Park street, North Reading, was damaged a few days ago by fire to the extent of $1500 to $2000. The fire was discovered during the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Barber and the fire department called by telephone. The chief responded at once in his automobile, but his equipment of hand grenades was insufficient and it was not until the engine arrived after a trip of two miles that the flames were checked. The back of the house was destroyed and as the fire started near the chimney, it was undoubtedly caused by the heating apparatus. The contents of the house were saved thru the good work and judgment of neighbors.

"Like the Rope of Ocnus."
Few persons who use the phrase "like the rope of Ocnus" to denote profitless labor know the significance of the expression or its great antiquity. "The Rope of Ocnus" was the name of a picture painted by Polygnotus, a distinguished Greek, who died in the fifth century B. C. He is reputed first to have given life, character and expression to painting. According to Pliny, he opened the mouth and showed the teeth of his figures, and he was the first to paint women figures with transparent draperies. Ocnus was a poor but industrious Greek, whose extravagant wife spent money as fast as he could earn it, and he related his troubles to his friend the painter. Polygnotus thereupon painted the picture of a man weaving a rope of straw, while behind him stood a donkey, eating the rope as fast as it was woven. It is pleasant to relate that the silent lesson had the desired effect upon the wife of Ocnus and that it was through her subsequent frugality and thrift that Ocnus ultimately rose to a position of great prosperity.—Minneapolis Journal.

Wart Superstitions.
Wart lore is voluminous. It is said that a wart will leave a person if a lock of his hair is cut from the nape of his neck without his knowing it; that a wart will result if a frog spit on one; that warts may be cured by rubbing them over with a black snail, which must afterward be lapped on a hawthorn; that if a bag containing as many pebbles as one has warts be tossed over the left shoulder it will transfer the warts to the person who picks up the bag; that if one take a piece of twine, make as many knots on it as there are warts, touch each wart with the corresponding knot and bury the twine in a moist place, saying, "There is none to redeem it beside thee," the warts will disappear, and so on ad infinitum.

Lord Bacon seriously wrote in one of his works how an intelligent and non-superstitious woman, the wife of an English ambassador, had cured his warts by rubbing them with a piece of meat and mulling the meat up on a window post in the sun.

Success.
The flower of true success may be gathered only by discerning persons who want it more than they want any other thing and who seek it through all the days of all the years. It has no limitation, is of but one variety and may not be pressed and dried between the leaves of any book, even the Bible. Its name is character. It is not a rare flower, accessible to only the few, but it is modest, of quiet mien and hue and is often hidden by the foliage and gorgeous blossoms of more spectacular plants, so that the merely casual eyes of those who hurry along the life path seem to miss it altogether. It grows indoors and out, in all seasons and weathers, and may be plucked by the black hands of the miser as well as by the hands of those whose time is given to less rugged and daintier tasks. The man who gathers character gathers success, no matter how he may be rated by the commercial agencies.—Richard Wightman in Metropolitan Magazine.

Locked In With a Maniac.
The writer was once closeted with a patient whom he had no suspicion of being mad until the latter got out of bed, turned the key of the door and preferred a mild request to the writer to have his throat cut, handing him at the same time an open pocketknife, which he produced from underneath his pillow. I objected to the knife as being too small for the purpose and begged to be allowed to go for my case of amputating knives, with which, I explained, the operation could be performed with greater neatness and dispatch. He unlocked the door at once, binding me over to secrecy and urging me to lose no time in returning. I drove home, reported the case to the authorities and came back with assistance. He was secured with great difficulty and sent to the asylum.—London Tit-Bits.

The Woman In Russia.
"Love your wife like your soul and seat her like your carpet." This is a Russian proverb. Another of the same spirit, "Not long hurt the lumps from a loved one's thumps." Wives have undoubtedly been subjected to much ill treatment in Russia, where most husbands have always held to the opinion that "liberty spoils a good wife." Some Russian proverbs are cynical as to the delights of matrimony, and most married men know how to say, "Wed once, wall always."

His Chance.
Young Wife—Yes, dearest. I'm going to favor you at dinner tonight with a new cake that I invented all by myself. Young Husband (gloumily)—Say, I guess this will be a good night for me to bring Jim Taggart home to dinner. I don't like Jim.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Matter of Habit.
"But why do you put your friend's things in the dining room?"
"Oh, he is so used to restaurants that he won't enjoy his dinner unless he can watch his hat and coat."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Motor Anesthesia.
Notice—It must be a dreadful sensation to run over a man! Chauffeur—Not nearly so dreadful as to run over a cow, and it doesn't injure the machine so much.—Judge.

Easy.
"Nellie," said the teacher, "you may tell me how to make a Maltese cross."
"Step on her tail," promptly answered Nellie.—Everybody's Magazine.

GOVERNOR DRAPER.
In defeating Gov. Eben S. Draper for re-election the people of the state have succeeded in inflicting an injury upon the Commonwealth, not upon him. He has made as good a governor as this state has known in a generation, and he has done so by eliminating himself and his political future entirely from consideration in the solution of public problems. He has refused to trim his sails to every passing breeze, in order to get on politically, and so ably has he filled the high office of governor that no man was found in the campaign who could find any state issue upon which to make an appeal to the voters.

THE HIGHLAND GLEE CLUB.

The seventh concert of this organization is announced for Tuesday evening, Dec. 6, at Bray Hall, Newton Centre, at 8 p. m.
The soloist for this occasion will be Mrs. Grace Bonner Williams, soprano, of Boston. She has not been heard in Newton for some years, having last appeared with the "Singers."
The club will also be assisted by Mr. Almon J. Fairbanks, pianist, and Mr. John Hermann Loud, organist, and the concert will be given under the direction of Mr. Edgar Jacobs Smith, Newton Highlands.
Since giving their last concert, the membership has increased to 50 and an interesting and enjoyable evening is assured.

REFUSED TO ASSIST.

For interfering with an officer when he was making an arrest, Phillip Grasso of 24 West street, Nonantum, was fined $10 by Judge Kennedy in the Newton Court Monday morning.
The complainant was Patricia James Mills. Last Sunday evening he was attempting to arrest Joseph Antonelli, who also lives at 24 West street, and who was under the influence of liquor. According to the officer Grasso attempted to pull the prisoner away. The policeman called for help, and two men assisted him in arresting both Grasso and Antonelli.

In court the latter was fined $5 for drunkenness and $10 for using profanity. Grasso declared that he was interfering with the officer he was trying to assist him.

If the kitchen window is kept open at the top while cooking such foods as cabbage, onions, etc., the unpleasant odor will go out of the window instead of spreading all over the house.

WHEREAS a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Emma Harwood Bates, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her, the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge in said County of Middlesex, on the sixth day of December, A. D. 1910, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause if any you have, why the same should not be granted.
